Clearing up facts

Dear Editor:

I am writing this letter to clear up the facts in recent articles concerning the Carmel Youth Center (CYC).

First, there has never been any proposal by either the city or the CYC to have the city take over the CYC. The discussions to date have centered around the possibility of having the city recreation director use the CYC as an office; this would be a logical place to operate youth programs. In return the CYC would receive financial help, hopefully in the area of salaries and insurance. No decision has been made. The CYC Board of Directors gave me permission to continue along these lines in further discussions with the city.

But before we can go any further the city must decide how much they will budget for a full-time recreation department. In the meantime, the board of directors of the CYC must plan austerity measures to allow us to survive the next seven months. Thanks to individual donations, service club contributions and funds raised by Clint Eastwood paraphernalia sales, we are now in pretty good shape.

But the future of the youth center still remains in doubt. The solution still points to combining resources from the city, the school district and the youth center. Our board of directors must control the type of programs at the center. Our goal is for more and better programs for the young people in the Carmel area with emphasis on the teenagers.

I am optimistic that the CYC future is bright. With all the community interest, and a city council that has shown strong, positive interest in the CYC, we should be able to achieve the best youth center anywhere.

Big-time politics

Dear Editor:

Clint Eastwood's $20,000 January poll of Carmel voters showed incumbent Mayor Charlotte Townsend ahead by 54-31 percent.

To reverse these figures, he called on three veteran political workers. Sue Hutchinson moved into Carmel to ramrod Eastwood's campaign. Arnold Steinberg of Sherman Oaks, who conducted the poll, continued as a consultant. Eileen Padberg of Costa Mesa is a media expert.

The combined experience of these three includes working with President Reagan, George Deukmejian, Richard Nixon, Barry Goldwater, and on dozens of smaller campaigns. With all this campaign savvy, they designed one to fit Eastwood's needs.

A vague little platform was prepared consisting of water, parking and bringing a sense of pride back to Carmel.

They scheduled 55 teas, where the candidate spoke charmingly but never wavered from the platform.

To reduce the candidate's image as an international movie star, he was directed to shun the non-local media.

Mayor Townsend and her local helpers were no match for these pros. The carefully tailored Eastwood campaign rolled over them in a smashing 73-27 percent landslide, which also carried two new city council candidates into office, totally wiping out all three incumbents in this contest for management of Carmel.

Carmel voters must have been dismayed by a recent story that all three of their new mayor's campaign team were previously employed by oil companies to defeat an off-shore oil issue in Santa Barbara.

Thus the little town was propelled into the arena of big-time politics.

It may never be the same.

A piece of cake

Dear Editor:

A recipe for the successful Special Olympic Annual Games.

Blend in 300 special athletes from throughout the county, who until several years ago had little or no exposure to athletic training or competition.

Fold in a dedicated board of directors and staff working five months before the games, setting up new goals and standards of excellence for the annual event.

Add a handful of committed volunteer coordinators, who make hundreds of phone calls acquiring volunteer assistance for running the games.

Assemble more than 700 volunteers who unselfishly give their time to help bring it altogether for one glorious day each year.

From this mixture separate chairpersons who oversee: each athletic event, transportation, facility set-up, medical, opening ceremonies, food concession, demonstration clinics, awards and entertainment.

A helping of promotion, including a shaker of dots and dashes from the media.

For color add military and civic leaders from throughout the county and state, and professional athletes who come together in recognition of the spirit and determination of those competing.

Combine all the above ingredients together in a caring community that helps support Monterey County Special Olympic programs through the year.

Bake for eight hours under a warm glowing sun in front of more than 2,500 cheering, enthusiastic spectators.

The results? A small bite of life that leaves a sweet aftertaste for months to come, encouraging all to return for seconds next year.

The Special Olympic Games. A piece of cake.

Act of Congress?

Dear Editor:

The bombing raid against Libya was an act of war, but Congress did not declare war. We are told that there could be further attacks.

The Constitution clearly states that only Congress has the right to declare war. As in Korea, as in Vietnam, as in Grenada, Congress did not declare war.

In Korea in the 1950s Congress and the president, Harry Truman, skirted the constitutional question by insisting that it was not a war, that it was merely a "policing action." It was war.

In 1964, in Vietnam, Congress again evaded its war-making responsibility by passing the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution. That shifted the war-making power from Congress to the president, Lyndon Johnson. Johnson accelerated the Vietnam War with a resolution from Congress saying that he could.

In 1973 Congress passed another resolution called the War Powers Resolution. It is the War Powers Resolution, and one would suppose the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution, that provides President Reagan with at least some semblance of legality for the bombing of Libya.

This brings about a serious legal question: Does the Congress have the legal right to change the Constitution by the simple expediency of passing a resolution?

That is exactly what they have done although the legal way to change the Constitution is by amendment. Yet, each elected official has sworn an oath agreeing to obey and protect the Constitution of the United States.

We will never know the cost in blood, tears, and national wealth that we have paid because Congress was not held to its duty, and the president was not forced to live up to his oath. We will never know because the rules were not enforced.

Unfortunately, the worst may lie in America's future. Because if you don't obey the rules, in effect, you have no rules. And that is the stuff dictatorships are made of.

WE TIP needs support

Dear Editor:

Any call that puts a criminal behind bars is a call worth making — and taking.

An organization called WE TIP, Inc. was founded 14 years ago so that people could give information about a crime, without having to give their name or testify in court. The nationwide hotline offers anonymity to crime witnesses in exchange for any information leading to the arrest, conviction or location of criminals. The hotline accepts tips on all major crimes including welfare fraud and has the most successful anti-arson campaign in the country.

Supported by businesses, service clubs, cities, counties and individuals, WE TIP provides rewards up to $500 for useful information, which is passed on to law enforcement, fire services, insurance companies and bank and corporate security offices.

Founded in 1972 by a former sheriff as an anti-drug organization, WE TIP has received more than 80,000 tips leading to 3,000 convictions and more than twice that many arrests. Drug seizures based on WE TIP information are valued at $110 million, recovered property at $4.4 million and arson damage at $12.4 million.

The impact of WE TIP's growth and expansion can be seen through citizen involvement and the 80,000 tips that have been taken to date.

WE TIP needs your support to continue to work for you. If you are interested in further information, write to WE TIP, P.O. Box 740, Ontario, CA 91762 or call (714) 987-5005.

Hey! Let's write some letters, okay?

Look you guys. Just because the election is over doesn't mean it's time to stop writing. How else are we to fill holes on our letters page?

The issues are numerous and controversy constant. So what better way to let your neighbors and elected officials know how you feel than through a letter in the Carmel Pine Cone/Carmel Valley Outlook?

It's easy, it's fun and most of all it's free. See your name in this spot next week. 'Nuff said.

CLINT EASTWOOD, newly-elected mayor of Carmel-by-the-Sea, conducted his first-ever city council meeting May 6 with a combination of speed, humor, informality and the bending of at least a few of Roberts' Rules of Order. The city council went through 45 agenda items (three after a closed session) in about six hours, ending at about 10:10 p.m. to a handful of onlookers and reporters in contrast to the packed house earlier in the day. (Michael Gardner photos.)

The council wrapup:

Odello issue not over although suit dropped

By MICHAEL GARDNER

A DECISION by the Carmel City Council Tuesday night to drop its long-running legal feud with the Odello family over building on their east artichoke field still does not clear an easy path for the development.

Dropping of the Odello suit was just one of nearly 50 agenda items considered by new Mayor Clint Eastwood and the Carmel City Council in the more than six-hour marathon session that also marked the initial meeting for new Councilmembers Elinor Laiolo and Bob Fischer.

Key action included: dropping the Spanish Bay lawsuit, approving public restrooms, delaying library annex plans, banning fourth of July fireworks and agreeing to sell Flanders Mansion.

Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman Wednesday morning promised that she will continue to lobby the board to ensure that the Odello East ranch just south of Rio Road is included in the planning area of the Carmel Valley Master Plan.

Now undergoing its second revision, the draft master plan and its accompanying environmental impact report will severely restrict development through an allocation system whereby projects must compete for permission to build based on such impacts as traffic, water and views.

Strasser Kauffman pointed out that supervisors at one time had considered an out-of-court settlement with the city over the Odello development but did not accept the proposal because the board reached a consensus that no matter what happened in court the property would be included in the Carmel Valley Master Plan planning area.

"That's always been my position," she told the Carmel Pine Cone/Carmel Valley Outlook. "I don't anticipate any objection (from fellow supervisors) to my position at all."

Strasser Kauffman said the Odellos will benefit by inclusion in the master plan since that way the traffic impacts of their project can be reviewed on a Valley-wide basis rather than just in the area south of Rio Road.

Traffic, Strasser Kauffman said, is the key element in the Odello plans.

"There's no way the Odellos are going to be able to prove that they're not going to generate a large amount of traffic," she said.

STRASSER Kauffman pointed out that the Carmel Area Land Use Plan gives permissive zoning for up to 162 units, a restaurant and farmer's market.

"Those are maximums. Those are not guarantees," she said.

Any development there will also have to be phased, Strasser Kauffman added.

Dropping the Odello suit was one of Eastwood's campaign themes, and Bruna Odello supported him in his election bid.

Eastwood was joined by Fischer and Laiolo in voting to discontinue the case while holdover Councilmembers James Wright and Helen Arnold dissented.

Actually, it wasn't so much a matter of dropping the suit, but rather choosing not to pursue the case any further should the Odellos appeal. The latest court win for the city had ordered the Coastal Commission to revamp its findings for approval of the Odello zoning. That is pending before the commission.

"That doesn't make it right," was Eastwood's reaction to a question on why he would abandon a court case that has twice been won by the city.

Wright had a differing view, wanting the city to keep its options open in case the Coastal Commission does not adequately follow through on the court order.

"I find this extraordinary," was Wright's statement after the meeting.

As part of the agreement, the Odellos promise to drop their counter suit against the city and both sides will pay their own attorney fees.

In another court case, the council unanimously voted to discontinue its lawsuit against the county over development of the Spanish Bay resort. The action was taken with no discussion.

Last week, Monterey Mayor Clyde Robertson said that since his council had not taken action on appealing the Spanish Bay lawsuit then that's an indication Monterey will not pursue litigation. Monterey was a partner with Carmel in the lawsuit seeking to block development of the resort in Pebble Beach.

The Spanish Bay and Odello lawsuit decisions came at the end of the meeting following a half-hour closed session.

Eastwood gaveled his way through a more than 45-item agenda and after six hours had ticked away the new mayor headed out into the night with a spotless record since he was on the affirmative side of each vote.

Eastwood, proving that he is not one to abandon campaign promises after being elected, marched through an agenda that he had packed with pet issues, ranging from the Harrison Memorial Library annex to public restrooms to the sale of Flanders Mansion.

PINE INN PLAN REVIVED

The council postponed its review of the proposed Harrison Memorial Library annex to pursue an offer from the Pine Inn to reopen negotiations for a joint underground parking garage.

The former council had rejected the plan because a majority did not want to enter into a development with private business.

The city is planning to build an approximately 20-space, $556,000 underground parking garage in conjunction with the proposed 5,700 sq. ft. $905,000 annex on the northwest corner of Lincoln Street and Sixth Avenue.

Chris McKay, general manager of the Pine Inn, told the council that owners Richard Gunner and George Andros are "highly interested" in opening negotiations on a joint project. Pine Inn has a surface parking lot adjacent to the city's property.

A larger garage built with Pine Inn and sharing costs would provide approximately 96 spaces.

Only Arnold was on the council at the time the Pine Inn plan was rejected and this council seemed interested in pursuing the matter.

On a motion by Laiolo, the council unanimously voted to ask City Administrator Doug Schmitz and Eastwood to meet with Pine Inn representatives and report back at the June session.

The offer from Pine Inn meant another one-month delay for the library annex. Eastwood acknowledged that, saying "I hate delays," but said this is one instance where a continuance may be beneficial to the city.

Before McKay made the offer, the library annex was discussed at length by the council and several residents.

A key concern is the $900,000 price tag for the facility that will provide room for the children's library, technical services and administrative offices.

Jack Billwiller, president of the library board of trustees, said, "The cost is, at least as I see it, within the means of the library." The board has $1.85 million set aside in an endowment fund for the annex.

Ex-Mayor Barney Laiolo, husband of Councilwoman Laiolo, opposed the annex because of the cost. "I feel this is a fantastic amount of money for what we're getting."

Orval Mead said that it would be more practical and less expensive to have services all under one roof by expanding the present building onto the garden area fronting Ocean Avenue.

He pointed out that the annex is being built mostly for children when the adults need more space. "Six percent of the population would be using 60 percent of the new building," he said.

But former library Trustee Jean Grace said that "everyone will benefit" because the existing children's library and administrative offices will be vacated, leaving more room in the present library.

Bob Evans said, "it's time to come to the conclusion that this is basically the responsibility of the library board of trustees."

Opposing the annex was Al Eisner, who said, "I think there is a large policy question here that has to be addressed: who are we building this library for and who's going to pay for it?"

Eisner said that 60 percent of library patrons are non-city residents, which means traffic problems downtown. "You're inviting a traffic problem."

Councilman Fischer pointed out that 61 percent of those responding to a city questionnaire last year opposed any changes to Harrison Memorial Library and did not want an additional building.

Councilman Wright, however, said that a cross-reference check indicated that the majority of those who frequently use the library support an annex.

"This is true," Fischer responded.

Alcoholism kept him from the Hall of Fame

By MICHAEL GARDNER

DON NEWCOMBE looks back on his 1956 record of 27-7 — including baseball's Cy Young and National League Most Valuable Player awards — and knows that those kinds of numbers should have escorted him into the Baseball Hall of Fame right alongside his successors, Don Drysdale and Sandy Koufax.

But instead, the ex-Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodger pitching star found a way-one ticket out of baseball at the bottom of a whiskey bottle.

Today, a recovering alcoholic for 16 years, the 59-year-old Newcombe is on the lecture circuit talking to organizations and schools about the effects of alcoholism and drug abuse through a program offered by New Beginnings, a chain of recovery centers.

Newcombe, known as "Newk" in his playing days, will be speaking to Carmel High School students Thursday, May 15.

Alcoholism cut his career short by at least six years, Newcombe told the Carmel Pine Cone/Carmel Valley Outlook in a telephone interview from his Woodland Hills home.

Although his career stats of 149 wins matched against just 83 losses are good, those kinds of numbers don't guarantee Hall of Fame status. Add on those extra six years and Newcombe's numbers could be Hall of Fame material.

Newcombe's talk will "center around the alarming statistics of young people losing their lives because of drug and alcohol abuse-related accidents and suicides," Newcombe explained.

"Eighteen teenagers die every day because of alcohol and drug-related accidents," he continued. "It's a people problem and we take it directly to the people."

Newcombe said he started drinking even before his teenage years when growing up in New Jersey.

"Most people in my family drink and it was an integral part of our lifestyle. No one ever mentioned the word alcohol. No one mentioned the word abuse," he said.

"It became a part of my life when I was eight or nine years old."

As a rookie, Newcombe joined fellow Brooklyn Dodgers Jackie Robinson and Roy Campanella as the first blacks to break the color barrier.

Newcombe's early campaigns are equal the numbers posted by today's pitching star, Dwight Gooden of the New York Mets.

Then 23, Newcombe fashioned a 17-8 record and won the National League Rookie of the Year award in 1949. He followed that campaign with several fine seasons, including a 19-11 mark in his sophomore year and 20-8 record in 1951.

IT WAS Newcombe who pitched in the famous Brooklyn-New York pennant playoff game forced by the Giants when they roared back from a 13-game deficit to catch the Dodgers on the final day of the regular season.

Newcombe battled the Giants even into the ninth when he tired and was replaced by Ralph Branca. It was Branca who yielded the famous "shot heard 'round the world" — Bobby Thompson's game-winning home run that gave the Giants the National League pennant.

Drafted into the army, Newcombe didn't return to play until mid-1954, slumping to a 9-8 record and a horrendous 4.56 ERA.

Regulated to the bullpen to work his problems out in early 1955, Newcombe pitched himself back into the starting lineup and by the All-Star break he was 14-1. He closed out the campaign with a fine 20-5 record.

But that was just a sign of better times to come as Newcombe put together one of the best seasons ever by a pitcher: 27-7, winning the MVP and Cy Young awards to become the first player to win those honors plus the Rookie of the Year.

Not only did he pitch, but at the plate Newcombe slammed seven homers and batted .359 in that year.

But from the pinnacle came the fall and Newcombe posted a mediocre 37-36 record over the next several seasons before retiring at the age of 32. In comparison, Tom Seaver of the White Sox won 16 games in 1985 at the age of 40.

Newcombe believes that his baseball career was shortened by the drinking, but says that when pitching he was in control.

"During my baseball career, I had some control over my drinking. I knew what I had to do...We sobered up the next day and went about our business," he said.

It was his wife that finally put an end to Newcombe's drinking, threatening to leave him if he didn't sober up.

"I never thought of myself as an alcoholic," he said.

But those lost six years — and perhaps resentment at Newcombe's outspokenness to the media — has cost him a coveted spot in the Hall of Fame.

Each time Newcombe was nominated for the Hall of Fame he failed to get more than 55 votes, far short of the number needed. Even the veterans committee cannot consider him since Newcombe didn't win at least 100 votes.

Newcombe is bitter about being rejected for the Hall of Fame, questioning why a pitcher with his MVP, Cy Young and Rookie of the Year credentials did not get more consideration.

HE EVEN went so far as to write baseball commissioner Peter Uebberoth suggesting that an MVP award be a guaranteed entrance into the Hall of Fame.

Newcombe sides with Uebberoth over the DON NEWCOMBE, one of baseball's great pitchers from 1949 to 1956, will speak on alcohol and drug abuse to Carmel High School students May 15. Newcombe's career, by self admission, was cut short by at least six years because of his drinking problems. drug testing proposed for baseball in light of the problems unveiled in the Pittsburgh cocaine scandal last summer involving such giants of the game as Keith Hernandez and Dave Parker.

"That (testing) is the only thing I can see right now that will allow them to pinpoint the problem...If not, players will always have the stigma whether they use the drugs or not."

Newcombe, noting that athletes are revered, said "they're public figures. They owe something to society."

Newcombe also supports Uebberoth's punishment of those involved in the Pittsburgh trial — community work and donating 10 percent of their salary for one year to charity.

"I think the commissioner was obligated to penalize these men," Newcombe said. "He was obligated to be tough on them, although I don't think he was tough enough."

Murder suspect's actions shock a quiet village

By NANCY HILLS

THE MURDER of Pacific Grove's Ray Podell on the afternoon of April 30 in Pebble Beach has shocked the normally quiet village of Carmel.

Sorrow tinged with fear cast a pall over what should have been a time of celebration for the workers on the campaign of recently-elected Carmel Mayor Clint Eastwood. A volunteer on the campaign, David Eugene Archer, 42, of Carmel, became the prime suspect in the killing.

The Monterey County Sheriff's Department believes Podell was killed when he interrupted a burglary at a Pebble Beach home. He was shot at point-blank range with a shotgun and dragged for approximately 100 feet by the suspect's car, according to the sheriff's department.

Archer's arrest April 5 in San Luis Obispo ended a six-day manhunt by Monterey and San Luis Obispo County law enforcement officers and alleviated some of the fear. However, several nagging questions remain.

"Everybody thought that everybody else knew him," was one comment made by someone involved with the campaign that characterized many statements made by others about Archer's presence during the election. A few people said they had known Archer through his wife, Hope Ansbacher, a person universally described by those who know her as a "wonderful woman."

No one contacted by the Carmel Pine Cone/Carmel Valley Outlook knew anything about Archer's prior convictions in Santa Cruz County. Those convictions include, according to Monterey County District Attorney Michael Bartram, a 1973 assault with intent to commit rape, and in 1978, convictions for issuing fraudulent checks, escape from Santa Cruz county jail, kidnapping, robbery and automobile theft. Bartram said he believed Archer served time for all the offenses but was not sure if it was done at the same time.

Archer was scheduled to be arraigned May 7 in Monterey County court for murder, with added counts of use of a firearm by someone with several prior felony convictions. Bartram said that punishment for a felony is increased if there are prior felony convictions. Bail had been set prior to arraignment at $500,000.

Just after the April election, the man many campaign workers claimed had been a problem and some referred to as a "groupie," was reported to have written bad checks to numerous Carmel businesses, broken into vacant homes in the city to live after he and his wife broke up, and harassed several women acquaintances on the peninsula.

Although Archer had told people he was an assistant manager of Eastwood's campaign, his exact role remained a mystery to many. He was frequently seen at campaign functions and his trademark carnation boutonniere, large blue "Eastwood for Mayor" button and light-colored polyester suits made him easily identifiable.

Eastwood said that Archer had sometimes represented himself as an assistant campaign manager, but he was only a volunteer not involved in any advisory capacity. Eastwood added his campaign manager, Sue Hutchinson, had had problems with Archer during the campaign.

"Sue had become disenchanted with him and had politely asked him to stay out of the campaign," Eastwood said.

Eastwood said that he had met Archer through long-time friend Ansbacher six years ago, but did not see him very often and did not know him well at all. Eastwood said he knew nothing about Archer's past.

"I've known his wife (Hope) for many, many years. She helped to get our telephones for the campaign office," Eastwood said.

Podell's killing, Eastwood said, was a "very, very sad situation."

Ansbacher works for a telephone company in Carmel and friends say she is currently in the process of getting a divorce from Archer. They had been married for approximately one year according to friends, and the divorce was filed before he became a suspect in the killing. She was unavailable for comment.

Archer, according to people who knew him, sold ads for his own company's yellow page telephone directory.

Eastwood said that Archer was one of 200 people who volunteered to work on the campaign and described him as "tenacious," but felt he was a hard worker.

Hutchinson said reports that Archer was an advance man for the campaign were "absolutely untrue" and that he invited himself to many of the functions even though asked to stay away.

Archer had volunteered the second day the campaign office opened in the first week in March, Hutchinson said. He became a problem when he claimed to be a media contact for the campaign and an assistant manager, she said.

"He wouldn't go through me on anything. Everybody else did, but he wouldn't," Hutchinson said.

People have asked her why she let him "stay around," Hutchinson said, "but what was I supposed to do?"

She and others on the campaign had tried to ease him out, but there were so many people to deal with, it was difficult, she added.

There were complaints in the community about Archer, including one that he showed up at a business at 9 in the morning, drunk, to push for an endorsement.

One Carmel man who claims he has known Archer for about a year said that he felt that the "campaign took over his (Archer's) life."

"I think he felt he finally found something he could be productive in."

Another person who knew Archer for a year and during the campaign said Archer was "too intense, was going overboard (on

Planners tackle sticky ice cream issue again

By NANCY HILLS

FROM PASTRIES to ice cream is Michael Montana's plan for Wishart's Bakery on Ocean Avenue.

The Carmel Planning Commission will review Montana's application for an ice cream parlor at 4 p.m. Wednesday, May 14 in the Carmel City Council chambers.

Along with the ice cream parlor, the commission will discuss development plans for the former Grunion Run restaurant site, a clothing store in Paradise Mall and a specialty apparel store in The Mall on San Carlos Street.

Montana is purchasing the bakery from owner Frank Garner and has submitted plans to convert it into an ice cream parlor. Once again, the land use committee has recommended no ice cream cones — at least until the Carmel City Council has decided on whether to change the code on uncovered takeout food. The current code prohibits uncovered takeout foods from an eating establishment, the classification ice cream stores come under. The city council in its April 6 meeting passed a resolution that directs the planning commission to draw up an ordinance specifically for ice cream parlors. The city council must vote to approve or deny the ordinance before it becomes law.

No cones was the initial problem Montana encountered last year when he applied for an ice cream parlor permit in the space now occupied by On The Beach surf shop below J.J.'s shoe store on the corner of Mission Street and Ocean Avenue. The application was eventually denied on the basis that it would use more water than the previous business in the same location — which is against the city water ordinance.

The "no cones" prohibition on the application received nationwide attention and became an issue during the recent city election.

Brian Roseth, assistant planning director, said the land use committee has recommended approval of the new ice cream parlor, with the exception of ice cream cones. The committee cannot recommend cones because it would violate the current ordinance, a situation only the city council can change.

Montana's plans, Roseth said, includes table seating and two restrooms, both required by the food service code. The number of seats allowed will depend on the water usage of the bakery, Roseth added. Montana has also agreed to limit the takeout nature of the business, Roseth said.

sideration when the city implemented its master environmental assessment draft report for Carmel. That assessment is due to be finished later this year.

The plans show a series of buildings, single story on the San Carlos Street side and two story on Mission Street side. The land use committee had recommended in its review of the building complex that the architectural styles differ enough that it would not appear to be one project.

The commission will also consider a density use permit of 27 units per acre for the project.

Roseth said the key questions the land use committee identified for the planning commission on this item are:

- How much commercial space should the city allow considering the city's lack of water?

- Should allowable water use be based on a previous use that is no longer allowed in the zone? The previous use on the site was a restaurant, which is no longer allowed in the residential-commercial zone where Grunion Run is located. New commercial water use is based on the use of the previous business.

- Should such a large project appear to be one complex?

- How much building mass should be allowed and are the existing commercial design standards appropriate for the residential-commercial district? The present planned project uses 99 percent of the code-approved site coverage

IN OTHER agenda items, the commission is scheduled to:

- Consider a use permit for a clothing store in Paradise Mall on the corner of Ocean Avenue and Dolores Street.

- Consider a use permit for a specialty apparel shop in The Mall on San Carlos Street.

DEMOLITION OF the former Grunion Run restaurant to prepare for new construction and whether or not to require an environmental impact report on the development of the 16,000 sq. ft. site located between Mission and San Carlos streets on Fourth Avenue is also scheduled to be addressed by the commission.

Carmel attorney Robert D'Isidoro purchased the site earlier this year from the Doud Estate. He has submitted plans by architect Dennis Hodgin for 9,600 sq. ft. of office space on the first floor and nine apartment units on the second. Building plans include an underground garage with 33 parking spaces.

There is an abandoned single-family dwelling and a parking lot also located on the block that requires demolition for the project to proceed.

Roseth said that the staff is recommending the commission not require an EIR because development of the site was taken into con-

Big Sur feels the crunch of another road closure

BIG SUR residents are hoping that Caltrans will have a landslide blocking Highway 1 cleared by early June as promised. Otherwise, the region could be headed for its second major economically-disastrous summer in four years because of slides blocking Highway 1.

Large numbers of visitors now bypass Big Sur because of the slide at Redwood Gulch. Highway 1 through Big Sur is a popular route on the Disneyland to Hearst Castle to Carmel to San Francisco tourist circuit.

But with the slide 36 miles south of Carmel, most visitors eliminate Big Sur from their itinerary, avoiding the long drive from Highway 101.

Merchants dependent on the transient drive-through visitors have seen business drop by "30 to 35 percent," according to Bob Bussinger, president of the Big Sur Chamber of Commerce.

"It's tough, it's really squeezing," he said. Bussinger, the vice president and general manager of Ventana Inn, said business at the inn is down only about 5 percent. Most of that loss is last-minute drop-ins.

"We're fortunate in that all of our reservations are in advance so we can explain to people that they have to use Highway 101," Bussinger said.

"The restaurant on the other hand, especially the lunches, are terrible," he said. We're down 20 to 25 percent there. The retail store is down a good 25 percent."

Bussinger explained that the visitors from the north still will make the trip down to Big Sur, but it is the Southern California tourists who are avoiding the region because of the slide. Traffic from Southern California comprises two-thirds of his business.

CalTrans, in a recent meeting with Big Sur businesses, predicted an early June opening for the highway.

An optimistic view is that the highway will be cleared by the Memorial Day holiday. "I'd love to see that happen," Bussinger said.

"About the same as usual — poor," is how Fernwood owner Barbara Davey described business. "We're about a third down."

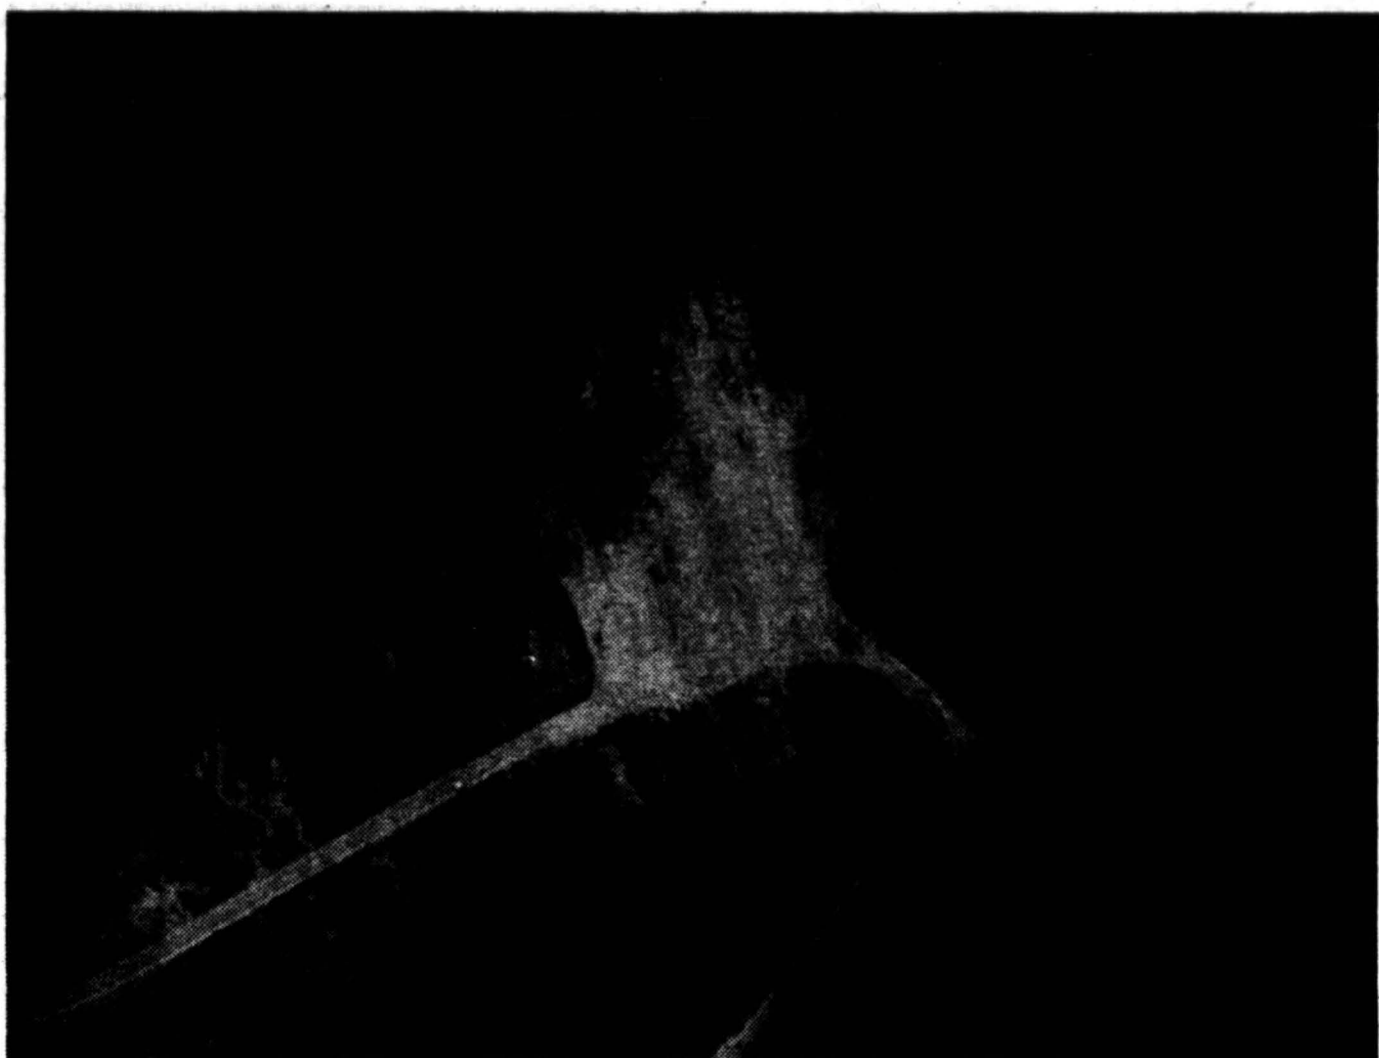

Linda Gilliland, a desk clerk at the Big Sur Lodge, said the rooms are "packed" on the weekends.

She said most of the business is coming from the north and those people are "disappointed because they can't get the full Big Sur effect" of driving through to San Simeon.

Gilliland said most merchants will be okay "as long as they (Caltrans) get it done when they say they will. We take things one day at a time."

RIVERSIDE Campground is deathly quiet.

No children are playing by the river and no cooking fires fill the air, even at lunchtime. "Business is way down. We're down by 40 percent. The only cars you see are our own," said owner Hugh Rideout.

Normal capacity on a spring weekend is 20 to 25 percent of the campsites and the cabins are usually full, he said. With the slide, only a handful of cabins and campsites are occupied.

Business is even down at the popular River Inn, where cars are usually parked three deep at the retail and restaurant complex.

Danny Braddix, bartender at River Inn, said business is "way down, by about half. Everybody's behind by a month or a month and a half."

But not everyone bemoans the drop in tourists.

Gary Koeppel, owner of Coast Gallery, indicated that the slide has not hurt his business.

"It's almost normal. There aren't as many people, but those who are coming down are spending more," he said.

One restaurant worker, who asked not to be named, called the slide "a blessing" because it has kept Big Sur from overflowing with tourists.

And Richard Wango, a self-employed gardener, said, "I love it. It keeps the area relatively free of traffic. My business is local. It's unfortunate for the local businesses, but it's worth it. I wouldn't be at all unhappy if the road didn't open."

BEHIND THE LINES

BY MICHAEL GARDNER

Boy, was it a sloooow week

THE VOICE ON THE PHONE

We all know that it's secretaries and receptionists who run this world. After all, who controls who gets to see the boss when?

One of the nicest receptionists around is Isabelle Head, who answers 624-1546 at the Carmel Unified School District Central Office. Always a happy voice, the epitome of pleasant phone manners.

Issie, as she is called, also has the "fun" task of tracking down subs when teachers call in sick at the last minute. Issie's been through too many flu seasons to remember, but pretty much to the dismay of students she always seemed to find someone to fill in.

The reason I bring this all up is just to say goodbye and good luck to Issie, who's retiring at the end of the school year after 25 years of service.

IT'S COSTLY AT THE TOP

The school district is learning that sometimes it doesn't pay to be the best.

Seems that state school Supt. Bill Honig has this program that gives districts cash for doing so well in the California Assessment Program (CAP) tests.

Carmel's 98 percentile ranking earned itself about $3,300 extra in 1985-86, but zip for next fiscal year because it failed to improve on the nearly perfect scores.

BURSTING THE TRIAL BALLOON

A trial balloon is one of those things sent up early to see what the reaction will be. In military jargon it's "let's run the plan up the flagpole and see if anyone salutes."

Well, CUSD Supt. Bob Infelise did just that recently, providing us with information about his administrative reshuffling plan before the school board meeting. He did, however, inform the board of his plans before he talked to the media.

Next thing we know, the story is criticized by certain board members because it named names before the board hearing. The question I ask is how can this board, which ran on an anti-secret meeting platform (remember the Bill Rand affair?) be critical of letting the public in on the public's business?

Strangely, in a district traditionally opposed to more administrators, not one person in the audience opposed the reorganization plan.

NO GOLF TODAY

Infelise, after heavy lobbying in Sacramento, was noticeably concerned when rumors floated around that a special education subcommittee was going to cancel its April 30 hearing on a proposal that could cost Carmel half a million dollars.

It seems that Wednesday was the annual lobbyist/legislators golf tournament.

"We're sitting on pins and needles," is how Infelise put it for the school board.

Somehow, a miracle occurred and the committee did not play golf. That's worth repeating: they did not play golf.

No decision was reached. However, there are hints of a compromise that could mean the district will not lose all of its "basic aid" grant monies, which under Gov. Deukmejian's plan would be about $500,000.

Stay tuned.

'AWESOME' IS THE WORD

Sixty-three Carmel High School seniors have been accepted into the University of California system. "Awesome," is the description used by guidance counselor Bob Harr.

We have to agree.

MORE ON FEDERALIZATION

National execs from the Wilderness Society and Sierra Club were in town last week touring Big Sur, site of another big battle over proposed federalization of the region.

Down at Virginia Adams' home, one could just see Ansel sitting at the piano taking in the chatter during a reception for the two, George Frampton, president of the Wilderness Society, and Doug Wheeler, executive director of the Sierra Club.

No windy speeches, but as expected, talk focused on Big Sur and Sen. Pete Wilson's federalization bill during the evening sponsored by the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club.

Frampton and Wheeler hinted at support of the bill, which is bound to irritate Big Sur residents who overwhelmingly oppose the measure.

They both praise Wilson for his interest in preserving Big Sur and were heartened that the Republican (Wilson) is joining with the Democrat (Alan Cranston) in pushing the legislation.

Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman also attended, she having announced opposition to the bill.

APPOINTMENT TALK

Let's see who else is up for re-appointment to city boards and commissions. Might make for idle gossip on who's in and who's out this spring.

Over at the library, trustees Bernard Anderson and Ron Kabat are up in July. Anderson's handicap is that he supported Charlotte Townsend in the mayoral campaign. Kabat's attendance is at best infrequent, having missed several meetings in a row.

At Sunset Center we have three terms expiring in June, Jean White, Roger Premier and Suzanne DeClerque. Pretty much a non-controversial board, although the new administration has hinted that it doesn't like some commissioners dragging their feet on endorsing a full-time recreation program.

There are no scheduled vacancies on the forestry commission.

A JOKE IS A JOKE, BUT...

Early on in the campaign one of our office daydreamers and capitalists decided that maybe if Clint is elected he could set up one of those cardboard cutouts of Clint outside of city hall.

The idea would be to charge tourists five bucks to have their picture taken with the new mayor. A common practice in front of the White House.

Now along comes Jim Kelsey, who popped up to our office with a life-size cutout of Clint starring in a spaghetti Western as the "The Man With No Name."

Sorry tourists, Kelsey won't be out in front of city hall. But he did manage to get one photograph of himself palling around with the star.

A DAY IN THE LIFE OF...

Have you ever seen those wonderful A Day in the Life of... books where photographers have captured a day in the life of Hawaii, Australia and Japan?

Well, from 12:01 a.m. to 11:59 p.m. Friday, May 2 lensmen from throughout the world focused their cameras on the United States.

We found Miguel Fairbanks, a photojournalism student at Columbia (Mo.) University at city hall the day before, trying to shoot Eastwood.

The mayor, because of the tragic David Archer affair, was kept under wraps and had to turn the project down.

But Fairbanks did shoot 100 rolls of film of Esalen Institute, a strawberry field in Salinas, the Monterey Bay Aquarium and a firewalker in Santa Cruz. Quite a 24 hours.

Look for the book on the shelves during the Christmas shopping season.

Timothy Grady campaign: Akin to Creation

"From the fire and pain make us clean"
Chorus in Oedipus Rex

By KEN FADEM

This is not a statement about Timothy Grady, but his recent campaign inspired it. When Grady declared his candidacy for

'Though he did not appear to be material for a political cloak, Grady nonetheless had the grit to speak out on one of the most pertinent issues of our era, and he did so in a way that paled the relevance of our present projects to alleviate local problems. What good is a parking lot when automobiles themselves are the problem?'

Mayor of Carmel on the Environmentalist Party ticket my reaction was one of admiration for a man who would stand in the political forum to address a profound problem. Perhaps I am among those who are attracted to bold and creative thinking.

Though he did not appear to be material for a political cloak, Grady nonetheless had the grit to speak out on one of the most pertinent issues of our era, and he did so in a way that paled the relevance of our present projects to alleviate local problems. What good is a parking lot when automobiles themselves are the problem?

He was suggesting that our political antidotes to Carmel's problems are a temporary convenience rather than a cure, that the problems need to be examined in a broader light. Even as his broad-stroke remedies failed to fit into the present cultural norms of practicality, they were worth being aired. It soon became apparent that the candidate was articulate, and a good portion of the community began to listen; perhaps the germ of a useful idea might be gleaned. He needn't become mayor to make a contribution.

Grady proposes a kind of political economy that goes directly to the source of the problem — our attitude. It serves to point out the kind of assumptions that we make about ourselves and nature in general.

It rightfully reminds us that we are in the accursed habit of taking the essentials of life candidate for mayor Timothy Grady were elected mayor and could put some of his environmental ideals into practice.

for granted, failing to care for them properly. In general, Grady's view is witness to the cost of human advice, and he in fact suggests that without a sound ecological base we can only advance towards further deterioration. Nonetheless, his bid for political office was an act of optimism: the self-destructive momentum of mankind is yet reversible.

Grady's broad-stroke remedies were not welcomed with open arms. My own observation is that most of us, despite a lot of fashionable rhetoric to the contrary, are stuck in humanity's primum mobile — irreversible advance — and feel impotent in the face of such massive problems. We take safe and conservative refuge, enjoying what is left of the natural environment while it is still here. Urgent and drastic measures remain at this time politically unacceptable; Carmel will not be unpaved and reverted to grazing pasture for deer and rabbits alongside humans. If it was, we would probably drive the poor creatures nuts with our lust for neuroses.

To turn a community in a healing direction as wholeheartedly as Grady proposes would demand a critical shift for most of the community's individuals, not impossible but highly unlikely at this time. If anything, the evidence shows more of a shift toward escaping into metaphysical abstractions than dealing with earthly rejuvenation.

This is not to disparage Grady's truths in any way; his sense of loss is profound and quite tenable. If the environmental truths are not in accord with the modern ethos, then man will simply have to forage through his own waste in his own way. Grady doesn't want to get dragged along with him. Man is already quite confused sorting through a density of information that his mind has never before confronted. He may be learning to live with his confusion, but he has yet to build a new structure from it.

The character of the modern state can only sustain so much ideal behavior. Any radical turn towards preservation will have to proceed in the company of social, cultural, and political assumptions. If those assumptions are not altogether sane, they nonetheless make up an existing psychological reality that cannot be easily overcome.

While the environmentalist view admits to the interconnectedness of all living things, it often fails to take into account our social aspirations and this mass psychological struggle that we call history. Grady might improve his positions were he to further his understanding of the "civilized" psyche and how we have come by it. Our modern consciousness cannot be so readily discarded (nor should it be) in the name of ecology. I can appreciate that he won't like some of its implications — we do not always cut a pretty picture — but the story is as complex and exciting as any life history found in the sand dunes and forests. It has a beauty of its own.

On the other hand the common modern belief that science and technology can reconstruct anything, that man can now perform his own version of Genesis, is ludicrous. Yet, we appear determined to cling to that belief. Environmentalism remains in the suburbs of political thought. For better or worse good business practice remains the key to community organization.

I would suggest to Timothy Grady that if he wishes to continue his worthwhile crusade for a healthy humanity that he increase his understanding of and tolerance for the human animal. I also suggest that he take a fresh look at the dynamics of society of general. Being right is not necessarily being effective.

An effective environmental plan will have to consider the nature of the beast it wishes to preserve, or is it wildlife alone that is to survive? I cannot say for sure that this understanding will make it possible to achieve real results before environmental catastrophe becomes a personal reality, but I do believe that one must know the nature of those whom one is trying to influence.

We are just a bunch of half-ignorant boobies floundering through our daily lives trying not to crumble under the haunting image of how ugly the truth may become. We believe that bold and creative measures are within our reach, but we are not always courageous enough to overcome our conservative inertia. Our nervous systems take on added stress crossing a street, and we no longer feel secure in the faith that the winds will forever wash away sickly exhaust fumes, but right now we deal with parking cars. Perhaps that makes us feel like we're doing something.

Personally, I like the idea of nothing but trees and grass and people on Ocean Avenue and perhaps even some sculpture touched by human hands. An image wells up of people milling about, free to wander in any direction, free to turn beyond narrowly allotted lanes or yellow markers, an image of men and women lounging in sidewalk cafes enjoying the pleasures of perennial plants and ephemeral man without the brutal invasion of automobiles upon their bodies and psyches. We'd probably all be dizzy from lack of constraints and the slowed pace, but that experience alone can be truly remarkable. Downtown Carmel begins to feel like a uniquely human rather than a metallic experience. Maybe it isn't such a crazy notion! It's certainly possible — even in a mad civilization that prefers crude oil to refined lives.

It is not as frivolous an act as it may at first seem. The potential benefits to be gained amount to serious wealth. The very act of restoring priority to human beings and our simple pleasures, that is an act akin to creation.

Mahroom subdivision issue finally gets a hearing

THE MORE than year-long battle over the density for a proposed subdivision in the High Meadow area continues next week before the Monterey County Planning Commission.

Commissioners on Wednesday, May 14 will consider a proposed general plan amendment that would halve the density for the proposed Mahroom subdivision on 2.07 acres in the High Meadow area, southeast of Highway 1 and Carpenter Road.

The hearing is scheduled for 7 p.m. in the county courthouse.

High Meadow residents since April 10, 1985 have been trying to get the county to reduce the density from 36 to 18 units per acre.

The petition has been shuffled between commissioners and the board of supervisors since.

The latest episode was April 30 when the developer's attorney, Brian Finegan, objected to the hearing because of inadequate public noticing.

Finegan made his objections after the staff report through an 18-page memo that also included statements opposing the amendment to reduce density on his client's property.

Commissioners agreed to a continuance, which irked the more than 20 High Meadow residents in attendance at the meeting. They were not given an opportunity to speak.

Supporters of the amendment charged that Finegan was using delaying tactics so that the project could be approved before the density in the area is reduced.

If the commission makes a recommendation on the density reduction amendment then supervisors will hear the proposal at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, May 20.

Cal-Am installs new water main

THE CALIFORNIA-American Water Co. will begin installation of a new water main downtown Monday, May 12.

According to city Public Works Supt. Bill Askew, the six-inch pipe will be installed along the east side of San Carlos Street between Ocean and Fifth avenues.

The work is expected to take about 10 days, Askew said.

4 PERCENT BED TAX WOULD YIELD CITY $65,376

A proposed 4 percent motel-hotel bed tax which could net the City of Carmel at $65,376 annual revenue was outlined by City Clerk Larry Rose last night in a detailed report accepted by the Carmel City Council.

Motel-hotel interests were heavily represented in the council chamber audience which heard the Rose report, which had been requested by the council last month and which was based on 1960 figures showing the city has some 821 transient rental units in its four hotels and 43 motels.

The tax figure was projected by using a $9 per night estimated average rental and a figure of 65 percent average occupancy. The present $5 per year per room flat rate tax brings only $4,105 per year. Direct cost of administering the proposed new tax was figured at $640.

WPA WORKERS ARE REFUSED BALLOT

Sixteen men, residents of the Carmel Valley WPA camp, were refused the right to vote in the presidential primary Tuesday, on the ground that they are not bonafide residents of the county. Although they had registered without challenge, officials at Point Lobos precinct polling place denied them the privilege of voting, and quoted Attorney General U.S. Webb as authority for their decision. The men contended that inasmuch as they have no homes elsewhere, the state camp is their residence in fact; they they are American citizens, have resided in the state and in the county and precinct long enough to be entitled to vote. The exact legal status of the claim is difficult to determine, as it is believed here that the situation is unprecedented.

NEW LIBRARY BUILDING

Someone has at last recognized in a practical manner the inadequate and cramped conditions of our little library and by a generous donation has made it possible to move and enlarge it. The donor, who desires to remain unknown, has laid no restrictions upon the gift.

The land upon which the building now stands having been sold, together with surrounding lots, made expansion on the present site impossible.

The Library Trustees have been at their wits' end for some time to provide the necessary accommodations for the fast-growing community, and are very grateful for the relief provided. The work of moving and adding to the building, which will be erected diagonally across from the present site, will begin immediately.

WATER BOARD TO SEE CORPS PLAN FOR $300 MILLION DAM

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will present its preliminary design for a new San Clemente Dam to the board of directors of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District, 7:30 p.m., Monday, May 11 at Monterey City Hall.

The Corps proposes a 450-foot earthfill dam about one-half mile downstream from the existing San Clemente Dam.

The new dam would inundate the 85-foot San Clemente Dam, Prince's Camp and other areas of Cachagua on the upper Carmel River.

Additional water yield from the dam would be 35,000 acre-feet per year. The dam would also provide flood control and year-round flow for the Carmel River.

Cost is estimated at $300 million. Bruce Buell, general manager of the water management district, said local share of cost for the dam would be about $10 million per year. He said the money could be collected through water fees, connection charges and flood control benefit assessments. Fees for new water connections would be about $5 per unit, he said.

MINIBUS ACTION POSTPONED

The Carmel City Council made many starts but few finishes Tuesday night during one of the shortest regular meetings in quite a while.

During the two-hour session, the council heard, but did not act upon, salary demands of city employees. They continued an appeal for a proposed subdivision, as well as the matter of allocating revenue sharing funds for a mini-bus system, and a committee report of the job description for cultural director Frank Riley's replacement.

Although the council briefly discussed the creation of a mini-bus system for Carmel and parts of the county around the city's borders, the matter of transferring federal revenue sharing funds for that purpose was postponed until the May 11 meeting when a full report on the system will be presented.

Slide removal continues near Big Sur

Work continues on removing the slide that has covered Highway 1 at Redwood Gulch in Monterey County since March 17, according to CalTrans spokesperson Eddie Devens.

The elevation at which the work is being done is now down to about 200 feet above the existing road. When the work started on April 5, it began about 550 feet above the highway.

Preparation of the grade and bedding for the placement of a 102-inch diameter culvert was to have started May 3. Delivery of the pipe culvert to the job site began May 5. It is estimated that about 10 days will be required to prepare the grade and place the 350 lineal feet of culvert.

Opening of the highway to public traffic is still planned for the middle of June.

Local businesses tout Big Sur trips

Most remember the Highway 1 landslide of 1983 and the devastating economic effect it had on the Big Sur area.

While 1986 has produced another slide, it remains far south of Big Sur, approximately 35 miles. Yet despite the accessibility to Big Sur from the north, business in the area is again significantly down.

To help counter this problem, one local business has suggested that the Monterey Peninsula contribute to Big Sur's economy by promoting and visiting this beautiful area.

"I think we should encourage Monterey visitors and residents to take day and afternoon trips to Big Sur," said Christine Barrett, general manager of La Playa Hotel in Carmel.

An altruistic businessperson looking out for other businesses, Barrett hopes to help her southern neighbors by increasing day traffic to the area. "It's an easy trip down and the weather can often be much nicer than it is on the peninsula."

Bub Bussinger, general manager of Ventana Inn and president of the Big Sur Chamber of Commerce, also encourages increased visitation from the Monterey Peninsula and beyond.

Noting that over two-thirds of the area's revenue comes from northbound travelers on Highway 1, Bussinger has observed that business may be down by as much as 35 to 40 percent. The hardest hit businesses are those that rely heavily on the steady flow of traffic, including gas stations and snack/gift shops. Other businesses affected include restaurants, galleries and motels.

Discussions with CalTrans officials indicate that the road should be entirely clear by early June, and Bussinger anticipates a healthy summer season.

Landscape awards program announced

An awards program to encourage increased use of native and other low water-using plants has been opened by the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District.

This is the second year for the program. Enthusiastic support for last year's program prompted the district to make the awards program an annual spring event.

The purpose of the awards program, said Michael Ricker, district's demand management coordinator, "is to promote water conservation by recognizing those landscapes and commend those people who contribute to the peninsula by creating landscapes that not only are handsome but conserve water."

"On the peninsula per capita water consumption has risen to pre-drought levels; the conservation ethic of the 1970s has been largely forgotten. We would like to get people thinking more about using less. With about 30 percent of total residential water use applied to the landscape, sizable water savings can be achieved through conversion to drought-tolerant landscapes," he added.

Entries, Ricker said, will be judged by landscape professionals on the creative use of water-conserving plants, landscape design and maintenance, harmony between landscape and architecture, and the use of color.

Winners, to be announced at the district board's June 9 meeting, will receive certificates of commendation. Nominations may be made by writing the district office, Box 85, Monterey 93940 or by calling Ricker at 649-4866.

Location of the landscape and name of the owner and, if possible, the phone number, should be specified.

THE FIRST Concours de Monterey gets underway this Saturday, May 10 at the Monterey County Fairgrounds to benefit Meals on Wheels.

Classics, vintage cars, sports cars, a 1920s fire engine, motorcycles, and even a 1900s bicycle will be on display on the fairgrounds lawn. The Rolls Royce-Bentley Club and the Porsche Club will have special exhibits. Families are encouraged to make it an outing, with food and beverages available from a variety of booths on the grounds. Or just bring a picnic basket and lounge on the lawns.

For more details see Pine Cone Section II.

HEART ASSOCIATION RECEIVES PRO-AM GRANT

The board of trustees for the National Pro-Am Youth Fund gave $3,700 to the American Heart Association, Central Mission Trails Chapter for the purchase of cardiopulmonary resuscitation mannequins, heart health software discs for Monterey County junior high schools, and Heart Treasure Chests for Monterey Peninsula elementary classrooms.

The mannequins will be used by cardiopulmonary instructors for teaching resuscitation procedures. The software will be available to schools for use with Apple computers to explain the chambers of the heart and to teach basic concepts of the heart and circulatory system.

The Heart Treasure Chest is a program for young children which teaches them how to care for their hearts through proper diet, exercise and rest with many "hands-on" opportunities.

CAL REP GUILD DONATES FINAL FUNDS TO HOSPICE

The first donation to reach the newly-established Hospice Patient Care Fund came from the Cal Rep Theater Guild, which voted in December to disburse its final funds to Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula.

Cal Rep, which closed the doors of its professional repertoire theater in November of last year, chose to donate its final funds to Hospice because the board was aware of the organization's needs, according to Jeffrey Gilles, who served as first vice president for the Cal Rep Board of Directors.

"We wanted to be sure to channel our final funds back into the community, rather than throwing a party or spending it on ourselves in some way," said Gilles. "We all felt Hospice to be a very worthy cause."

The donation of $527.83 reached Hospice this week, according to Robert Brower, president of the Hospice Board of Directors.

"We felt the donation to be especially timely in view of the kick-off of our first annual Patient Care Drive," he said. "And we are touched by Cal Rep's continuing contribution to the community."

Mora is best known on the Monterey Peninsula, perhaps, for his Junipero Serra sarcophagus at the Carmel Mission. Taylor will emphasize that there was much more to this

FRIENDLY VISITORS, REFERRAL SERVICE MERGE

The Alliance on Aging, Inc. has announced the merging of two of its programs, Friendly Visitors and Senior Citizen Information, Referral & Assistance. The combined program will be named Senior Supportive Services and will continue to provide assistance to older persons in the community such as visiting the homebound by volunteers, information and referral regarding services available in the community, tax service, public benefits information, shared housing, insurance claims assistance and senior discount program.

This reorganization will result in closing the Friendly Visitor office at 200 Glenwood Circle, thus expanding the services available at the Alliance's office at the New Monterey Neighborhood Center at the corner of Dickman and Lighthouse avenues.

Sheila Meyer, executive director of the alliance, said this restructuring should result in a cutting of costs to address the escalating expenses as well as a more coordinated service for older persons in Monterey County.

FIRE LINES BY MITCH KASTRO

Looking for fire hazards

The time of year is here when people will be doing their annual clean-up around the house in preparation for the summer season. It is also a good time to clean up any fire hazards that may have accumulated during the past year. There are things to look for both inside and outside of the house.

Inside, start by checking heat-producing agents such as the chimney, furnace and water heater. If your chimney wasn't cleaned at the beginning of winter, now is a good time to have it done before you forget again. Check your water heater and furnace to see if any trash has piled up near them. If so, get rid of it. Also, check your furnace for anything that resembles soot. If it's there, it will be on top of the furnace, or on the floor near the furnace. It is important to immediately contact PG&E on this because it means that the gas is not burning completely, which may result in carbon monoxide leaks.

ELECTRICAL SITUATION INSIDE

Next, check your electrical situation inside. Make sure all outlets, light fixtures and switches are intact, and that no wires from outlets and switches are exposed. Make sure all appliance cords are in good condition, without splices or bare wire showing. This applies especially to electric blankets, kitchen appliances and lamps.

Do not use "octopus" plugs (multi-plugs) to create additional outlets. This is a very dangerous practice because several cords plugged into one outlet can create a lot of heat. It is possible that an overload in the outlet will create enough heat to start a fire before the house breakers or fuses have a chance to shut the power off.

If you must consolidate an outlet, use a heavy duty outlet strip with a circuit breaker on it instead of an "octopus." This way if there is an overload, the outlet strip will shut itself off before the heat can build up in the outlet; provided the strip has a circuit breaker. Throw away any octopus plugs you may find.

If you use extension cords, check to see that the thickness of the extension cord is at least as thick as the cord to the appliance it is plugged into; preferably thicker. It is safer for you, and your appliance will run better and last longer. Try to use only heavy duty, double-insulated extension cords at all times, and stay away from "zipcords" (thin, cheap extension cords) connected to an octopus. These cheap cords are not very durable, and are often used incorrectly, the same way outlets are used incorrectly. If you find them, throw them away and replace them with heavy duty cords.

While you are checking your cord situation inside, make certain that cords are not placed under carpets or stapled to anything. This creates instant wear and tear on the cords which causes their insulation to break down, thus dramatically increasing the chances of a short. If you have ever witnessed a short circuit in a cord, you know how scary and dangerous it can be. Make sure all cords are in good shape and protected from abuse.

CHECK STORAGE AREAS

In the kitchen, see that the range and ovens are clean and grease free, and check your washer and dryer for proper and safe wiring. Storage areas should be rid of cluttered trash that is not needed; and whatever items are needed should be neatly stored. Crawl space under the house should never be used for storage. If you have trash stored under your house, get rid of it.

Flammable liquids such as paint, thinner, gasoline and aerosols should be safely stored, away from the furnace, water heater, car and motor-driven appliances (lawn mower, weed eater, power blowers, etc.). Storing these liquids in a box, cabinet or locker made of metal makes for added safety.

It is important that gasoline be used only to power gasoline engines, and not as a cleaning agent, charcoal lighter or lantern fuel. When dispensing gasoline into an appliance, do so only when the engine is cold, and use a funnel if your gas can doesn't have a spout. If you must add gasoline while the engine is hot, make sure the engine is off and you have a fire extinguisher handy. Always store gasoline in a U.L.-approved safety can, specifically designed for gasoline. Never store it in plastic or glass containers.

CHECK VEGETATION OUTSIDE

In checking the outside, see that all dried vegetation is cleared from the house; 20 feet from the front and back of the house, and six to 15 feet from the sides, depending on the space. Any dead tree limbs hanging over the house should be removed, and all tree limbs within 10 feet of the chimney should be trimmed back. Clean needles and leaves off of the roof, and if you have your chimney cleaned, have the chimney sweep install a spark arrestor on top.

The fire department strongly recommends that you do not burn trash. However, you may legally burn on specified burn days until the end of May, if you obtain a permit from the fire department in your jurisdiction. Call the Burn Information Center at 1-800-225-BURN to find out if burning is permitted on the day you wish to burn, and burn only according to the specifications on your permit.

Finally, check where your trash cans are located. We recommend that you use metal cans with tight-fitting lids to contain any fire that may start there. There are many arguments that favor the use of plastic cans, but safety is not one of them. If you must use plastic trash cans, make sure they are located away from anything combustible, especially the house. A fire in a plastic can will melt the can and spread to the house.

Not antiques

MY GOODNESS, a furniture store in Carmel that's selling something made in my lifetime. Living here in antique land, I was beginning to wonder if anyone constructed furniture after the 1900s.

Of course, it's not really your basic high-tech how-do-you-sit-on-this? type of stuff.

That's because Carmel Country Store, opening June in The Mall on San Carlos Street where Jack London's is located, will be selling furniture made by the Amish and Fresno furniture maker Jane Everett's works. That's according to Carmel Country Store owner Linda Redding. The Amish, I understand, are not known for their steel and glass creations or for giving a hokey about what's hot and what's not.

Everett sounds like she doesn't care about those things either. Redding said Everett moved to Fresno from South Carolina three years ago and she and her husband make American country furniture and accessories out of "smooth pine." The furniture is painted in muted colors such as teal blue and brick, Redding said, with carved decorative hearts. Everett's work includes pie safes, pewter hutches, cupboards and desks. Besides what is offered in the store, Redding said she will have catalogs to order additional pieces.

The Amish furniture is from their willow furniture collection out of New Castle, Penn., she said. The frames are made from rough bark-covered willows. The chairs have cherry wood slatted seats and backs and the furniture comes in choices of three different walnut stains. In the store there will be a rocking "courting chair" — that's what we out here call a love seat — and there will also be a catalog available for ordering larger items, Redding said.

There will be no large pieces in the store, she added, which is probably a good thing because it's not exactly the biggest space in town.

COVERING THE situation from A to Z, Deanna Enger has purchased country craft store Alphabet Soup on the corner of Dolores Street and Fifth Avenue from her daughter, Vicki Schumacher. (Nancy Hills photo.)

SPEAKING OF...

Which brings to mind another shop in The Mall — Rox Arcana. Owner Dale Paplham claims the gazebo in which his crystal and bead shop is located is the smallest store in Carmel with 144 sq. ft. Do you know of a smaller spot? If you do, contact me here at the Carmel Pine Cone/Carmel Valley Outlook. We'll get a "tiny store" contest going here.

ALPHABET OWNERS

Seems like Alphabet Soup on the corner of Dolores Street and Fifth Avenue has had as many owners in the past year as the alphabet has letters.

In reality, it's only had three, and the latest is "all in the family." In January, Vicki Schumacher bought the little country crafts store from Dennis Hutchinson. Now Schumacher's mother, Deanna Enger, has purchased it from her. Both recently moved here from Oregon.

Enger said her daughter creates her own line of wooden home accessories and craftwork and found she "preferred what she was doing as opposed to being confined to the store." Enger has been working at Alphabet Soup since January, anyway, and says she "loves it."

Both Schumacher and Enger have been changing the merchandise little by little to suit their own tastes, and Enger said it probably won't be until June that the store will be as she wants it.

Enger added that she is trying to get more local handcrafted items in the shop — which includes her daughter's work.

WHATEVER YOU WANT

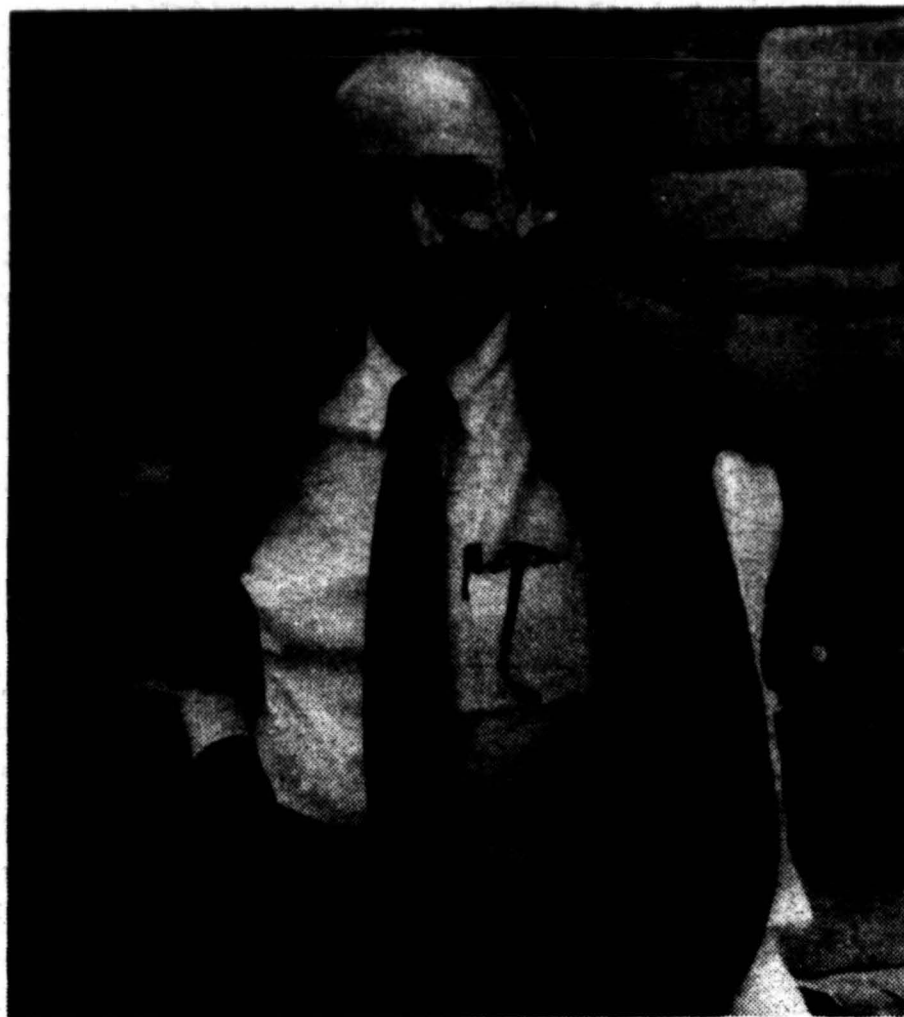

On the second story of the Su Vecino Court (where it's Bud's Pub is located) is a jewelry store, just in case you didn't know. And that store has just changed owners.

J. Filmore Thompson (the J. stands for Jeffery) has sold his store to Luis Garza, another Texan who has found his way here to Carmel, and his co-owner Margaret Sutherland.

Thompson primarily used the store as a place to design and manufacture custom jewelry for individuals and other jewelry shops on the peninsula, as well as jewelry repair and some retailing of his own work.

Nothing will change in that regard, Garza said, who plans to do the same thing. A fourth generation jeweler, Garza said he will be working on his own custom design work or sell them to other shops. Even Thompson is staying to continue his own work, which was the whole idea of selling the place, according to Garza.

"Jeff wanted to spend most of his time creating his own jewelry," Garza said.

NO, THIS is definitely not a tourist in front of the World War I memorial on Ocean Avenue and San Carlos Street. It's Carmel real estate agent Ernest Benetti, new owner of Benetti & Associates Real Estate, formerly Donna Dougherty Real Estate, on Lincoln Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues. (Nancy Hills photo.)

Which, I guess, means Sutherland and Garza get to do all those fun things like actually running the business. That's primarily Sutherland's job. She's doing the bookkeeping and front office work. Garza said.

In addition to Garza and Thompson, jeweler Diana Marie will be designing her own work there and long-time Carmel jewelry and watch repairman Kenneth Matthews will be working "on and off."

The shop carries its own jewels, if you don't have any of your own, all top-of-the-line quality, Garza said. He added that they will be able to create practically anything, from traditional to contemporary styles of jewelry.

FROM DOUGHERTY TO BENETTI

One way of moving up in the company is to buy it. Or at least a portion thereof.

Ernest Benetti was a broker at Donna Dougherty Real Estate on Monte Verde Street and 14th Avenue and now he's the owner of the 10-year-old real estate office. Dougherty, Benetti said, has another office in Monterey which she wants to concentrate on.

Benetti & Associates, he said, sells both residential and commercial properties and businesses. The entire operation is now computerized, Benetti added, a development that enables them to pinpoint areas the buyer is interested in and what is on the market there, run comparisons of past profits on businesses, what's net after taxes, when to sell, and all kinds of things I don't understand, so you'd better ask him.

Benetti said he has a staff of five right now and is looking for more. He's been a real estate agent since 1960 and has been coming to the peninsula on and off since 1945. I guess he knows by now how to find Ocean Avenue.

BEST FACE FORWARD

Norma Ross has announced that she is celebrating her sixth year as a massage therapist on Carmel Rancho Boulevard, and as a part of her celebration, she's introducing acu-face lift into her routine.

It's a one-hour treatment "consisting of finger pressure applied to precise point to effect internal change," Ross wrote.

Ross writes that it slows the aging process, relaxes muscular tension, improves blood and oxygen flow to face and brain, restores elasticity, propels lymph fluids, relieves sinus congestion and soothes harried nerves. All these things promote rosy cheeks, improves mental concentration, productivity and brighter eyes, she added.

The new technique is in addition to Ross's other techniques, including whole body massage therapy, foot reflexology and accupressure.

Just a slight delay

Although rain postponed Saturday's morning games, the sun returned in time for noon play and the well-maintained fields were in excellent condition.

Current Bronco standings: Pine Inn, 3-1; Derek Rayne, 2-1; Carmel Valley Disposal, 1-3; La Playa, 1-2.

Pine Inn shut out Derek Rayne 4-0 on April 28. Travis Smith and Danny Higgins pitched a fine ballgame, while Damon Murphy and Brian Sarkin led Pine Inn in hits.

La Playa won against Carmel Valley Disposal on April 29, 14-6. Chad Christensen and Brooks Juhring hit well for CVD, but Willie Moore, Jon Bohlman, Bain Smith and Andy Wilson provided the punch for La Playa. The game was tied until La Playa rallied in the last two innings for the win.

On Saturday, Pine Inn won a hard-fought contest with CVD, to win 8-6. Sky Feeles led CVD in hits. Versatile winning pitcher Clas Brown also caught and led his team in hits and runs. Pine Inn's Michael Downing and Brian Kingsley provided key hits.

Current Mustang standings: Dick Bruhn, 3-1; Carmel Realtors, 3-1; County Mounties, 2-2; Books, Inc., 1-2-1; Yates, Downer, 0-3-1.

County Mounties won 8-4 April 28 against Yates, Downer, with Jonathan "Jono" Spaulding the winning pitcher. Paul Huntington and Jesse Huston were leading hitters for County Mounties and Jim Rice made an outstanding running catch. Leading hitters for Yates, Downer were Chris Brandt and Toby Lauterbach.

Carmel Realtors topped Dick Bruhn 11-6 on April 29, with Chip Dorey and Greg Johnson the top hitters.

Dick Bruhn came back with a 9-2 win at the expense of Books, Inc. on May 1. Winning pitcher Alex Vorobiov and hitters Mike Palshaw and Casey Christensen were once again strong players for Dick Bruhn. Robbie Koontz led Books, Inc. in hits.

County Mounties fell to Books, Inc. on Saturday, 14-4. Daniel Silver showed batting skill, while teammate Robbie Koontz pitched for the win.

Carmel Realtors won their game Saturday against Yates, Downer, 9-6. Chip Dorey and Jeremy Bird were leading hitters. Bird also leads the league in hits, with an impressive 11-for-12. Billy Roeter led the way on the mound.

This week's featured Pinto team is Brown, Spaulding and Mahoney, with players Lorcan Ackley, Chris Chatham, Mary Greco, Christopher Greenwood, Michael Gulla, Brian Huntington, Nicholas Leonoff, Courtney Mayer, Freya Peters, Brent Sullivan, Noel Walling and Spencer Wilson.

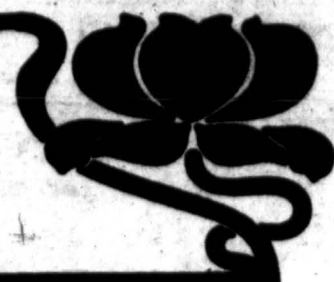

The only softball news came from Carmel Phillies. On April 28 the Phillies beat MPTV 15-5. Lisa Bray was the winning pitcher. Leading hitters were Alana Brown (home run), Amy Gray (triple) and Roe Sandoval (triple). On May 2 the Phillies won against Fort Ord No. 2, 10-9. Melissa Hill pitched for the win. Leading hitters were Lisa Bray (triple) and Amy Gray 2-for-2. On May 3 the Phillies lost to Harbor Realty, 14-2, despite good hitting by Vanessa Gulla and Tiffani Meheen (each 2-for-2).

Future leaders from CHS

THREE CARMEL High School students have been honored for their leadership abilities. Juliet Peck and Chris Nolte will be attending Girls' State and Boys' State, respectively, in June. The program is a course in practical civics, teaching students about government, and the duties, rights and responsibilities of Americans. The program is sponsored by the American Legion. Dysthe Benson also recently attended the Hugh O'Brien Leadership Program in Burlingame. Pictured from left are: Peck, Nolte and Benson.

CARMEL POLICE REPORT BY OFFICER GREG LINDSEY

'But officer...'

Traffic collisions are the leading cause of death for persons under the age of 45, and the fourth leading cause of death for all age groups.

Last year alone, 4,890 persons were killed and another 323,000 were injured on California's 138,350 miles of roadways. What is most tragic about these deaths and injuries is the fact that most, if not all, were preventable.*

In an effort to increase public awareness of this problem, Gov. George Deukmejian has declared May 18-24 as California Traffic Safety Week. The theme of this campaign is "Traffic Safety — YOU make it happen." This simple statement is really the heart of the whole idea. You and I as individual and, we like to think, responsible motorists, are charged with the ultimate responsibility for traffic safety.

It is interesting to note that about 92 percent of all traffic collisions are caused by human error. Only 8 percent are caused by mechanical failures, animals running onto the road, or other unavoidable causes. About one in every 5,000 California residents is killed in a traffic crash; one in 85 is injured; and one in every 50 drivers is involved in an injury-producing collision each year.

About 25 percent of all traffic fatalities occur in areas posted at 35 m.p.h. or less. We in Carmel have been relatively lucky in that no traffic fatalities were reported during 1985. The Carmel-by-the-Sea Police Department did, however, investigate more than 300 collisions during the past year.

Although statewide one of the leading causes of collisions is excessive speed, this does not necessarily hold true in Carmel. Many collisions which occur here are due to right-of-way violations. This is particularly true in the residential areas, where many intersections are uncontrolled and visibility is limited. Officers who investigate these collisions commonly encounter the following explanations offered by involved motorists: "But officer, I drive this road every day, and have for 25 years!"

This explanation is very common, particularly among residents who feel that visitors are responsible for most of the collisions. They aren't, and the simple fact that you are "overly familiar" with the particular street makes it more important that you pay close attention. If I drive a particular route to work or to the store every day, I tend to become complacent. After all, I've never had a problem before. But today, when someone backs out of a driveway in front of me, I'm not prepared, and a collision results.

"But officer, I didn't see a stop sign, so I assumed I had the right of way!" This is another frequently heard explanation, more often than not from a visitor, but many times heard from some local resident who should know better. Don't assume anything. If you can't see all approaches to an intersection clearly during the last 100 feet of travel before you enter it yourself, slow down! I never cease to be amazed at the motorists that hurtle blindly down some of our narrowest, most dangerous streets at 40 m.p.h., assuming that they have the right of way. If you drive like that in Carmel, I hope you have a good medical insurance policy.

Traffic safety is an individual responsibility. We are ALL charged with making our streets and highways safer. Simple awareness, common courtesy, and patience will go a long way toward making this goal a reality. And for those of you who still think that traffic accidents are something that happens to "the other guy," remember, YOU are the "other guy."

Chef demonstrates healthful cooking

Susan Perlman, chef at Chez Daniele restaurant in Carmel, will demonstrate healthful cooking techniques before a combined meeting of the Community Coronary Club and the Diabetes Support Group.

The program will begin at 7 p.m. Wednesday, May 14 in the main conference room at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula.

Coronary and diabetes patients and their families are invited to attend the free program. For details, call 625-4644.

You Have to Get Up Early to Catch an Alcoholic Sober

But that's what we'll do at Brightside Act Center if it starts him on the road to recovery.

It's part of a new process called "intervention," that almost always persuades an alcohol or drug abuser to seek treatment. Here's how it works:

Our intervention specialist will prepare the individual's family, friends, co-workers, and even his or her employer to conduct the intervention.

Then, led by the specialist and aided by the element of surprise, the group will confront the individual about his or her problem.

Interventions usually take place in the subject's own home and at whatever time is necessary to catch him or her at an unguarded moment.

Now, you can learn more about intervention and how it can help you help someone you care about by attending an intervention class at Brightside Act Center.

Classes are taught by Ed Storti and Brightside Act Center staff who have conducted more than 2,000 successful interventions over the past 11 years. He or the Brightside staff will answer your questions and direct an intervention for you if you need one.

5:00 A.M.

If you know of someone you would like to give the gift of sobriety, intervention is something you should consider. You can only fail if you fail to intervene.

CARMEL VOICE

BY SAM SALERNO

Here and there

A delightful new addition to the Golden Buddah in The Barnyard...Sandra Lee from Taiwan. But there's a catch! She's here for a visit and must return to her homeland soon. Sandra is in the exporting business working for the Republic Trading Co., Ltd.

GONE FOR A FEW DAYS

Another quick jaunt to Palm Springs to warm up these aching bones (too much golf) and I was surprised at the inactivity there. The locals are complaining that the visitors who frequent there regularly, left one month earlier this year. What are the reasons? Could be the dollar exchange. Many of the "winter regulars" are from Canada and the money exchange between the United States and Canada doesn't equate for them. The weather was great and humidity low for this time of the year.

WHERE TO DINE IN THE SPRINGS

Johnny Costa's in Cathedral City is our favorite because his specialty is seafood and pasta. Johnny comes from an area near Naples and can dish up the best seafood and pasta around. And now he has another treat in the form of Antonio Lecca and Gustavo Gabela, two Latinos who roam the tables and play your favorite requests. Make this a must when you visit the desert.

If you're looking for some snacks or takeout food, then Carlo's Italian Delicatessen on Indian Avenue is the place. Carlo and his lovely wife Joan have been in Palm Springs for more than 25 years and catering is their specialty. Incidentally, he wanted me to send congratulations to Clint for his mayoral victory. Carlo's restaurant walls are bedecked with pictures of stars from Hollywood and Las Vegas.

Mike Rosetto closes his Palm Desert locale of Golf Arts and Imports and keeps his Carmel location alive.

GOLF IN PALM SPRINGS

Teed it up with four golf buffs while in the Springs...Emilio Santinelli, Bob Roberts, Al Perry, and Peter Ferentz. Emilio has done a 180 degree turn in his game and he attributes it to the help of Ferentz who is a teaching pro. Normally, the Palm Springs Country Club is jammed with golfers but we had the entire course to ourselves.

BACK HOME AGAIN

The first thing we learn is that the police are looking for someone we know and had an occasion to run into during the local election campaign. We were as startled as everyone to hear that Dave Archer was the one police were looking for as a suspect in a Pebble Beach murder. Although we had seen and spoken to him during the many coffee sessions for Eastwood, Fischer and Laiolo, we never really "knew" him. It was a "Hello" and "Goodbye" sort of thing and "How is the campaign going?" etc.

HERE AND THERE

Eddie Randell is gone from Salinas Datsun to lend his talents to Monterey Mazda in the Peninsula Auto Center in Seaside. Rumor has it that heads are falling at the Salinas store. At the same time, Steve King leaves Monterey Ford. Steve, who lost his mom recently, will take it easy for awhile to regroup. Both Eddie and Steve were former Carmel bartenders...Bob DeLuca no longer selling ads for a medical tabloid. He's thinking about taking the real estate course. Good luck, Bob...At Rancho Canada, ran into Elmir and Joey Silva, two former employees there who can still tee it up with the best. Joey's at Value Max and Elmir is a plasterer.

MAD ABOUT SPORTS

That was one quick trip to Sacramento for four avid Houston Rockets fans to see them defeat the Sacramento Kings before a boisterous crowd. The four were two Landmark executives, Bill Thompson and Bill Vaughn, and Jim Freeman and this reporter. After the victory, the Thomases gave a party at the Red Lion Hotel, only to follow that party with another one at their Pebble Beach home a couple nights later.

OUR CONGRATULATIONS

To Greg Norman for his victory in the Panasonic Tournament in Las Vegas. The "Great White Shark" from Down Under is a favorite around here, having made many friends in the early years with the likes of Dan Bohen, Bobby Moffat, Mike Ayala, Dan Searle, and Dick McClean. He partied so much during the old Hatch Cover days that he forgot his golf swing and had to go home to Australia to "find" the swing again. Dan Bohen, incidentally, was his best man when Greg tied the knot in Florida a few seasons back. First prize for the Panasonic win was $207,000. Couldn't happen to a nicer guy.

Keep swinging!

Werner Kalmus, a peninsula resident since 1959, died April 22 at his Carmel Valley home. He was 73.

Born Oct. 12, 1912 in Berlin, he spent more than 20 years as executive chef or owner of some of the peninsula's well-known restaurants. He was trained as a chef in Berlin and Paris. In 1942 he married Hildegard Schneiderlin, and the couple spent the next 40 years working together in restaurants.

In 1956 they came to the United States, and lived in New York for three years, working at the Ambassador Hotel, the Christolm Restaurant and the Savoy Hotel. Mr. Kalmus also spent 1½ years as executive chef at the Philmont Country Club in Pennsylvania. Then he and his wife moved to San Francisco, where they worked briefly for the Sheraton before coming to this area.

After serving as executive chef at the Highlands Inn, he opened the Marquis Restaurant. Three years later he inaugurated the dining room service at Del Mesa Carmel, and four years later moved to the Sans Souci Restaurant, where he and his wife were co-owners for 1½ years. In 1974 they opened the Fernand Restaurant in Carmel Valley Village, operating it until his retirement in 1981.

He was a member of the Pacific Coast Chefs Association since 1960.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a son, Gerhard of Greenville, N.C.; and a sister, Irmgard Petersfeld of Berlin.

No funeral services were planned. The family suggests memorial contributions to the donor's favorite charity.

Modesto, where she taught school for a short time.

She made her home with Dolores Powell, a friend and longtime companion, and leaves no close relatives.

Memorial contributions are suggested to the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula.

Isabelle C. Faw

Isabelle C. Faw died April 20 at Monterey Pines Skilled Nursing Facility. She was 91.

Born Jan. 12, 1895 in Oakland, she was a resident of Carmel and Monterey since 1945, and was a member of Carmel Presbyterian Church and Pi Beta Phi Sorority.

Survivors include two daughters, Elinore Jean Boulger of Paso Robles and Doris Faw of Monterey; two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Her husband Claude died in 1972.

Following her wishes, no funeral services took place.

Born June 8, 1900 in Honolulu, Hawaii, she moved to San Jose when she was eight years old and attended school there.

She was a graduate of the University of California School of Nursing in San Francisco and worked as a registered nurse before marrying and moving to Fresno.

She was active in many civic and social organizations.

Survivors include her husband of 58 years, Dr. L. Glynn Price of Pebble Beach and Fresno; two daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Blank of Sunnyvale and Mrs. Janice Poor of East Granby, Conn.; eight grandchildren, four great-grandchildren and two nieces.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

There's an improvisational theatre troupe of senior citizens which is trying to debunk myths about growing older. Called "Acting Up", it was founded through the Outreach Program of Oakton Community College in Des Plaines, Illinois. They believe that audiences of all ages will come to a better understanding that growing older can be a time of creativity and self-discovery by watching humorous skits which poke fun at the stereotypes and myths of aging.

People over the age of 55 are the fastest-growing of the nation's consumer groups, and one of the most affluent—one reason you're seeing more and more advertising meant to appeal to the older shopper. People in that age category purchase 48 percent of all luxury automobiles, for instance, and account for a whopping 80 percent of all commercial vacation travel.

...
Remember When? July 3, 1930—The Veterans Administration was created by the federal government, combining all the agencies responsible for dealing with former servicemen into a single department.

Energy guide now available

A guide to assistance programs that can help consumers pay their energy bills is now available from Pacific Gas and Electric Co. in the Monterey-San Benito County area. This guide was published at the recommendation of PG&E's Monterey-San Benito County area Consumer Advisory Panel.

The panel is an independent group of community volunteers that meets monthly to discuss local service and energy issues of concern to PG&E customers in the two counties.

The energy guide was designed to help those who might need help paying their home energy bills, according to Jean Phan, chairwoman.

The guide outlines government and PG&E programs available to assist those with financial need; provides some idea of eligibility requirements; and explains which agencies administer the service and how to contact them.

To obtain a copy of the guide, or to voice any ideas or concerns for improving local PG&E service, please write PG&E's Consumer Advisory panel, P.O. Box 4207, Salinas, CA 93912.

Potentials being met

By FRANK LYNCH

Carmel Middle School principal

In a recent issue of Santa Clara Magazine, Ruth E. Cook published an article entitled "Motivating Children to Success." This article caught my eye because of the never-ending problem that is discussed in education circles concerning motivational techniques and dealing with students who are "not working up to potential."

Cook's thesis centers around the establishment of appropriate standards and expectations. In other words "whose potential is not being met?" Yours or your child's? If the goals or standards are realistic, flexible and involve a degree of self-determination on the part of the student then everyone will understand how the child sees his strengths and weaknesses. To understand this, is to understand your child as an autonomous human being rather than reflections of adults.

Ruth Cook says, "Children are pressured to do equally well in all areas. But as adults we have learned not to expect equal performances from ourselves."

To keep things in the proper perspective, here are a couple of suggestions from Ruth Cook:

1. Have a realistic level of difficulty expectation of performance for your child.
2. Have flexible or adjustable performance standards. Your child will not perform equally well in all areas.
3. Allow for autonomous standards where possible. Children should not have to compare themselves to others.
4. Encourage your child to express himself about his performance. Provide the opportunity for your child to deal with their feelings.
5. Encourage your child to recognize their efforts rather than just the results.
6. Encourage your child to provide self-reward for their effort
7. Make reward contingent upon behavior. Don't be indiscriminate in your use of praise or blame. Be objective.

I believe that Ruth Cook's message is a valuable one. As parents, educators and adults our verbal and emotional responses are very influential in effecting the behavior of our children.

To motivate a child to succeed, it is important to change a child's perception of his or her achievement. Cook capsulizes the solution to the problem as living up to potential by asking parents to change their expectations for their child's achievement by simply shifting from "It doesn't do any good to try" to "I can try and I will do better, little by little."

Legion Post 512 honors flag flyers

PATRIOTIC CITIZENS who fly the American flag every day will be honored by the local chapter of the American Legion.

Carmel American Legion Post 512 will honor citizens, businesses and organizations who fly the flag daily. Flag citations will be awarded at a ceremony scheduled for 7:30 p.m. on Flag Day, Saturday, June 14 at the Carmel Legion Hall, Dolores Street near Eighth Avenue.

To be eligible for a citation a person must fly the flag daily at his home, business or organization in Carmel, lower and upper Carmel Valley, Pebble Beach, and south of Carmel, including the Big Sur area.

The city of Pacific Grove does not have an American Legion post, so the Carmel chapter has invited residences, businesses and organizations in that city to participate in the program.

This is the fourth time the local chapter has sponsored the program. Members of the community can also nominate others who express their patriotism by displaying the flag, according to Paul Artellan, flag display chairman.

Nominations can be made in writing to: Carmel American Legion Post No. 512, P.O. Box 512, Carmel 93921.

RACING YACHTS will converge on Monterey Bay Friday and Saturday, May 9-10, for the "Flight of the Swans" regatta.

Competitive Swan racing concludes Saturday with an awards dinner scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Monterey Plaza Hotel ballroom.

Flight of the Swans regatta sails

THE SWALLOWS may return to San Juan Capistrano, but Swans are coming to Monterey Bay.

A "Flight of the Swans" sailing regatta is scheduled for Thursday through Sunday, May 8-11 on the Monterey Bay.

Eight and possibly more of the world's most lavish and elegant cruiser-racing yachts are expected to compete in the first Swan Regatta ever held in local waters. Races are planned for Friday, May 9 and Saturday, May 10, beginning at 1 p.m. each day. Thursday will be a practice day while Sunday will be a "getaway" day as boats head back to their home ports in Northern California.

Known as the Rolls-Royce of the sailing fleet, Swans typically participate in exclusive international sailing events such as those held in Porto Cervo in Sardinia, exotic ports in the Caribbean and at Newport, R.I., America's yachting Mecca.

Head-to-head competitive sailboat racing with this size and type of boat is thought to be a first in Northern California waters.

Friday's race will be a 16-mile modified "Gold Cup Triangle" course. Beginning approximately one-half miles out from Cannery Row, the boats and their 12-member crews will race to Point Pinos, race to the "A" buoy out in the bay, return to the starting line, then start the circuit again. The race on Saturday will be contested over a slightly varied, but similar, triangular course, depending on wind conditions.

Concours de Monterey to debut Saturday at fairgrounds

DUESENBERG, DELAHAYE, Delage. They're all names that provide sweet music to the ears of antique automobile enthusiasts. But a feast for the eyes also awaits the auto buff at the first Le Concours de Monterey to be held Saturday, May 10 at the Monterey Fairgrounds.

Classic cars that have survived the onslaught of time and fashion to become icons unto themselves will be displayed in grand manner from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Classics like Cord, Pierce-Arrow and Packard, vintage autos from the days of the horseless carriage, sports cars, motorcycles, bicycles from the early 1900s and even a 1920s fire engine will be on display on the fairgrounds lawn. The Rolls Royce-Bentley Club and the Porsche Club will also have special displays.

Proceeds from the event will go to Meals on Wheels, a non-profit organization that delivers meals to the homebound and handicapped on the Monterey Peninsula. Currently 175 elderly or handicapped are served daily by the group; hot noontime meals are also served to more than 500 ambulatory seniors.

Judging of the cars will take place between 10:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. with an awards ceremony slated for later that afternoon.

Co-sponsor of the event (KMBY-107 FM is the other sponsor), Hyatt Regency of Monterey, will offer a Patron's Circle, table seating adjacent to the reviewing area with a champagne brunch for $35 per person. Reservations are required. The Hyatt will also host a post-show party from 7 p.m. on at the Hyatt Regency. Dancing to live music, hors d'oeuvres and drinks will be the order of the evening, all at a cost of $22.50. Reservations are suggested.

ARTS & LEISURE

tions are suggested.

Admission to the show is $8 for adults and $5 for senior citizens and military. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

For more information contact Len Hagstrom at 372-1815 or Tracey Buswell at 372-1234.

THE 1926 BENTLEY Speed Model 3 Liter Sedan is one of the more than 100 classic and antique cars to be exhibited at the first Concours de Monterey, set Saturday, May 10 at the Monterey Fairgrounds. Only 16 of these cars with the short saloon body were manufactured between 1926 and 1928. Proceeds from the event will benefit Meals on Wheels, a non-profit organization providing low-cost meals to the homebound and handicapped of the Monterey Peninsula.

Transcendental Meditation: not for gurus only

By ANNE PAPINEAU

EFFORTLESS, effective, fun — these are some of the descriptions given to Transcendental Meditation (TM) by its advocates. In a world where most of us use only 5 to 10 percent of our mind capacity, Transcendental Meditation practitioners strive to put that other 85 percent to work.

CARMEL RESIDENT and certified Transcendental Meditation instructor David Rosenkranz will present a free introductory lecture on TM at 7 p.m. Tuesday, May 13.

"It is a mental technique which allows the conscious mind to tap the source of thought," explained David Rosenkranz, a Carmel TM instructor. "That source is a field of unlimited energy and creative intelligence characterized by bliss."

Rosenkranz, a graduate of Carmel schools, said he has travelled the world in his role as TM student and teacher. He encountered the technique in 1967, approximately the same time that Transcendental Meditation gained both international attention and notoriety as the meditation form espoused by the Maharishi Mahesh Yogi.

In that late '60s "age of enlightenment," such rock idols as the Beatles and Mike Love of the Beach Boys travelled the Maharishi's spiritual path.

John Lennon prematurely exited a TM retreat in India, dismissing the method as a lot of "colored water" and composed Sexy Sadie in the guru's (dis)honor. But proponents of TM, and they come from all walks of life, remain enthusiastic.

"It's hard to say you've tried everything, but before I discovered TM there was very little presented at that time that I didn't explore, in terms of chanting, meditation, movement classes and yoga," Rosenkranz explained. "They were all beautiful. But the difference between what I had been trying and TM was the difference between day and night ... TM was effortless, effortless but extremely profound."

If Rosenkranz speaks highly of TM, he has a lot of company. Transcendental Meditation has won practitioners from a diverse spectrum of cultural, ethnic, religious and economic backgrounds.

The TM technique was introduced to the United States by Maharishi Mahesh Yogi in 1959. It is a non-religious meditation system employed to achieve a relaxed, and thus more efficient, physical and mental state. It typically requires repetition of a mantra, or chant, to induce relaxation.

"TM is not a form of concentration, contemplation or control," he noted. "It involves no physical or mental control. You meditate twice a day because it's an enjoyable experience — not simply because you should."

"It doesn't conflict with a person's religion, social status or nationality," Rosenkranz added. "Even if they don't believe that it works — it will work."

TM practitioners meditate twice a day. "It's an important point that we don't meditate for meditation's sake alone, but as a prerequisite to activity," he explained.

Rosenkranz said a six- to eight-hour stretch between these 20-minute meditation periods is advised, thus many practitioners meditate in the morning and the evening.

If the TM technique is effortless, its teaching is highly structured.

The TM course, as taught by Rosenkranz

Welcome mat put out at historic walled rose garden

Everything will be coming up roses at the colorful Festival of Roses the weekend of May 10-11 at the historic Castro-Work Adobe at 720 Via Mirada in Monterey.

Roses in the walled rose garden and courtyards at the adobe are expected to be at the peak of their beauty and will offer a rare chance for the public to see the rose garden at its height.

In addition to viewing the garden, visitors will be able to tour the adobe, the earliest part of which dates back to California's Mexican era. Arrangements of roses will highlight the stylish furnishings and antiques that were collected over a lifetime by former owner Frank Work.

Also available will be rose consultations and sales, rose potpourris and herbs.

The adobe will be open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, May 10 and Sunday, May 11. Visitors are asked to use the free shuttle bus service from Monterey Peninsula College because of limited parking at the adobe.

A donation of $5 is asked of the general public, $4 for members of the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, of which the Castro-Work adobe is a part.

Proceeds from the festival will go to support upkeep of the adobe gardens.

The Castro-Work adobe was the home of Jose Castro, a prominent man of his time and was sold in 1919 to Gov. Morris, author, playwright and descendant of a Revolutionary War hero. He restored the remains of the adobe and added a two-story wing.

The property passed into the hands of the T.A. Work family in the 1930s and in 1946 became the home of their son, Frank Work, who deeded the adobe to the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art Association in 1983.

For further information contact Diana Ramos at 372-5477.

THE WALLED rose garden at the Castro-Work Adobe, 720 Via Mirada, Monterey, will be open for tours from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, May 10-11.

Rummage sale features 'treasures'

One of the peninsula's largest rummage sales takes place at All Saints' Episcopal Church from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

LOUANNE CAYLOR of Carmel admires English antiques, a Beefeater mannequin, lace-trimmed linens and Spode china, all items available for purchase in the Treasure Room at the All Saints' rummage sale.

Saturday, May 10, in the Parish Hall, Ninth and Lincoln, Carmel. It is sponsored annually by the Episcopal Churchwomen.

Thousands of articles for home and garden are featured, including art objects, crystal, silver, kitchenware, furniture, dishes, tools, large and small appliances, and a wide selection of clothing for men, women and children.

Complete lunches, as well as coffee, desserts and other snacks will be available. Free babysitting is provided.

The rummage sale is a major fund-raiser for the parish, dating back to 1946. It is the oldest continuing sale on the Monterey Peninsula.

All proceeds go to support the many church and community projects of the Episcopal Churchwomen, including Christian education, mission support, community outreach, hospice, domestic violence prevention and Alzheimer's disease care centers.

To schedule attendance for large groups, call the All Saints' Church office at 624-3883.

Community band volunteer musicians sought

The Monterey Community Band now rehearses on Tuesday evenings. Rehearsals are from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the Monterey Community Center, 542 Archer St., Monterey.

The City of Monterey established this all-volunteer community band. A number of local musicians at varying levels of proficiency have already committed to the effort. There is a need for additional band members.

Persons interested are welcome to join in at any time. Free community performances will be scheduled as the group progresses, with most occurring in outdoor settings.

There are no fees involved but musicians must provide their own instruments and music stand. Rehearsals are year-round. Heinrich Bender, serves as conductor.

For more details, call the City of Monterey Parks and Recreation Department, 646-3866.

Classic of the Pacific show draws blue ribbon canines

AN OPPORTUNITY to observe prize-winning examples of Shih Tzus, Schipperkes and Komondors will again be afforded during the 64th annual Classic of the Pacific Dog Show sponsored by the Del Monte Kennel Club.

An estimated 500 dogs representing 200 breeds are expected to compete during this blue ribbon event, presented Saturday, May 10 on the lawn in front of The Lodge at Pebble Beach.

To qualify, a dog must have won a blue ribbon in another competition. The show will consist of two categories — the all-breed portion of the show and the obedience trials.

American Kennel Club President William F. Stifel will preside over the show.

The six divisions in the all-breed show are:

Sporting — This group includes pointers, retrievers, setters and spaniels.

Rimers of Eldritch

The Forest Theater Guild in cooperation with Monterey Peninsula College inaugurates its three-show season with Lanford Wilson's Rimers of Eldritch. The play will be staged for two performances only at the historic Outdoor Forest Theater, Mountain View and Santa Rita, Carmel.

Admission is free to The Rimers of Eldritch, presented at 7 p.m. on two consecutive Saturdays, May 10 and 17.

Directed by Hamish Tyler, the play will feature 18 of Tyler's students from the Robert Louis Stevenson School theater department. Wilson's play tells of a dying town in the Midwest.

No reservations are required to attend, but audience members are advised to dress warmly. Playgoers may bring picnic meals to the theater for enjoyment before the production.

Harold and Maude

Colin Higgins' stage adaptation of the cult film Harold and Maude opens Friday, May 9 at the GroveMont Theater Arts Center. A half-price preview is scheduled Thursday, May 8.

The play tells of Harold, a proverbial Poor Little Rich Kid who at 19 has made several suicide attempts in a plea for attention. Harold really learns how to live when he takes up with the elderly, wacky Maude.

Directed by Nick Zanides, the production stars Danny Harray and Rosamond Goodrich in the title roles. Featured performers include Florence Larson, Jim Jensen, Ellis Allbee, George Goncalves, Chris Ingram, David Stein, Sky Rappaport, Maria Cates, Cyndi Coomer and Laurie Dickie.

Harold and Maude plays 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays and 2 p.m. Sunday, May 18 and 25. Thursday and Sunday tickets are $6.50 general, $5 for students and senior citizens. Friday and Saturday tickets are $7.50 general; $6 for students and seniors. The theater is at 320 Hoffman St., Monterey. Reservations: 649-6852.

You Can't Take It with You

The Kaufman and Hart comedy You Can't Take It with You continues at The Wharf Theater in Monterey.

Tickets are $8 and $6 for the production, which plays Fridays through Sundays until June 15. Curtain is at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, 8 p.m. on Sunday. The Wharf Theater is on Old Fisherman's Wharf in Monterey. Reservations: 372-2882 or 372-1373.

Any Wednesday

False assumptions, mistaken identities and lots of balloons populate Any Wednesday, a comedy playing at The Studio Theatre Restaurant.

Any Wednesday features Dick Vreeland as a millionaire businessman, Nikki McKee as his hoodwinked wife, Sheryl Griggs as his mistress and John Houghton as the irate victim of his sharp practice.

Dinner is at 7 p.m. with an 8:30 p.m. curtain Thursdays through Saturdays at the dinner-theater on Dolores Street between Ocean and Seventh avenues, Carmel. Times are one hour earlier on Sundays. Dinner and show price is $24.50 per person. Tickets: 624-1661.

Bertha the Sewing Machine Girl

California's First Theatre, the oldest theater in the state, is the setting for this melodrama about the exploitation of a working woman in New York City.

Bertha the Sewing Machine Girl plays 8:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays at the theater on Scott and Pacific streets in Monterey.

Tickets are $5 for adults, $4 for seniors and teens and $3 for children 12 and younger. For information, call 375-4916 between 1 and 5 p.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays and 1 p.m. until show time on Fridays and Saturdays.

Memorial Day camping reservations advised

More than half the campgrounds in the state park system are fully reserved for the Memorial Day weekend, Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights, May 23, 24 and 25. Reservations are running ahead of those of previous years.

Holiday campsites remain available at all of the northern redwood state parks, those near Lake Tahoe, and some of the north coast state parks and beaches. All south coast state park campgrounds are fully reserved for that weekend.

Reservations for state park campsites and Hearst Castle tours may now be made by phone as well as by mail and in person at reservation outlets. California residents may phone the toll-free number 1-800-446-PARK and charge their reservations to their VISA or MasterCard. Phone-in reservations may be made seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Thirty-two walk-in outlets (25 are now on line) will be operated Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Prospective campers and Hearst Castle visitors may telephone, from within California, the toll-free number 1-800-952-5580 to learn where the outlets are located and to get other reservation information.

A TDD number, (916) 324-1891, is available for hearing-impaired users. State park system information operators are on duty Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. At all other times, a recording will supply essential information.

and thousands of others around the world, consists of an introductory lecture, preparatory lecture, personal interview, personal instruction, and checking to ensure the program is understood and accurately followed.

The TM program can only be assimilated through personal instruction, Rosenkranz explained. Books or video lectures would not suffice.

"TM is imparted between teacher and student, that way we maintain the purity of the teaching. The mind experiences subtler states of thought until we transcend the subtlest state of thought and arrive at the source of thought. That evokes bliss, bliss, bliss most charming," he said.

Rosenkranz became a TM instructor in 1969.

"It's become a little more difficult to become a teacher now," he noted. "When I became a teacher I studied for one month and took the Science of Creative Intelligence course, studying the source of one's intelligence. Then I spent three months in Estes Park, Colo. All this was with the Maharishi, learning the mechanics of teaching the TM technique."

The TM teachers' course today requires about a year of training, he stated.

"There are 350 published studies on TM. It's benefits are being concretely defined, studied and researched all the time," Rosenkranz noted. Transcendental Meditation encourages both mental and physical efficiency, he added.

Rosenkranz' work with the TM movement has taken him to several continents in the past 17 years, he said. His impressions of the Maharishi are of "a very happy man in spite of how dynamic he is — the things he has achieved in his work schedule. When you talk of potential, he's a living expression of potential. He's not just sitting in a cave; he's a dynamic individual."

Fee for the four-session TM course Rosenkranz teaches is $390 for adults, $590 per family, $190 for retirees, $145 for college students and $75 for high school students.

"TM really defines the process of what meditation is for," he said. "It puts us back in touch with who we really are and our potential."

"TM deals with the nature of the mind," he observed. "The nature of the mind is the same for me as for every human being on the planet. If you were listening to a relatively charming melody and suddenly a more charming melody was heard from another room, by virtue of the desire of the mind to seek a more charming field of happiness your attention would automatically move from the lesser charming melody to the more charming melody with no effort. The source of thought is a field of bliss, and the mind, given an opportunity, moves in that direction without effort."

A television show introducing Transcendental Meditation as taught by Maharishi Mahesh Yogi will be aired 10:30 p.m. Saturday and both 9 a.m. and 9:30 p.m. Sunday, May 10-11, on TV 36, cable channel 13.

Rosenkranz will present a free introductory lecture on Transcendental Meditation at 7 p.m. Tuesday, May 13 in the Chapman Room at Sunset Center, Carmel.

THE SYMPHONIC BAND of Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo will join the Monterey Peninsula College Community Brass Ensemble in a Mother's Day concert on Sunday. Admission is $2.50 to the 7:15 p.m. performance.

College orchestras perform Sunday

The Symphonic Band from Cal Poly State University in San Luis Obispo, together with the Monterey Peninsula College Community Brass Ensemble, will perform a Mother's Day concert at 7:15 p.m. Sunday, May 11, in the Monterey Peninsula College Music Hall.

The concert is co-sponsored by the MPC Music Department and the School of Arts and Humanities at Cal Poly. Admission is $2.50. The Cal Poly Symphonic Band is composed of 50 wind and percussion players who are chosen by audition.

The band has performed at conferences of the California Music Educators' Association, the College Band Directors' National Association and at the Western State Collegiate Wind Band Festival held each year in Fresno.

The MPC Community Brass Ensemble is a group that was formed this spring for the purpose of involving students and community people in the reading and performing of traditional and contemporary music for brass. It is directed by Kevin Jordan, a graduate of the music program at California State University in Fresno and currently a teacher at E.A. Hall

Middle School in Watsonville.

The Community Brass Ensemble's program in Sunday's concert will include Two Madrigals by Ellis Gibbons, Triumphal March from Peter and the Wolf by Sergei Prokofiev, three pieces from Handel's Water Music, and Allegro and Air from King Arthur by Henry Purcell.

Highlights of the Cal Poly portion of the program are Commando March by Samuel Barber, Suite of Old American Dances by Robert Russell Bennett, Divertimento by Leonard Bernstein, and an excerpt from the ballet "Spartacus."

SPCA urges spaying of cats and dogs

The Monterey County SPCA and all those who are concerned about animal welfare know the statistics of dog and cat overpopulation. As long as humans allow their pets to breed, there will be many animals born that will never know a good home. Spaying and neutering is the simplest solution to the overpopulation problem, but many people may not know that altering also makes for a happier and healthier pet, the SPCA reports.

Unaltered animals spend a great deal of time and energy on the business of reproduction. Females in heat are restless escape artists and may be noisy, smelly or both. Males wander far and wide in search of mates, heedless of the dangers of fast cars or annoyed neighbors. Pregnant females cost more to feed, may need extensive vet care and create often-unwanted kittens or puppies.

Altered animals, free of the urge to reproduce, are more content to stay home and are healthier and more people-oriented, according to the SPCA. Altering a pet dramatically reduces the risk of many reproductive system cancers in both male and female dogs and cats.

Neutering a male animal reduces his tendency to roam and fight. This, in turn, means fewer fight wounds that need veterinary attention, fewer infections and abscesses due to bite and scratch injuries and less likelihood of being struck by an automobile. Male dogs are hit by cars nearly twice as often as females, probably because unaltered males do roam. By altering your pet, you may save it from an early death.

THE CHERISHED cattleya is among the orchid varieties that will highlight the fourth annual May Faire, returning Saturday, May 10 to the Customs House Plaza in Monterey.

A CELEBRATION of Cymbidiums, Cattleyas and other exotic blooms arrives Saturday, May 10 to Monterey's Custom House Plaza.

The Fourth Annual May Faire, sponsored by the Carmel Orchid Society, will feature commercial plant sales, culture demonstrations and drawings.

The Customs House Plaza is located near Old Fisherman's Wharf in Monterey.

MUSIC CORNER

BY JO ANN LA TORRA

Musical lovers bestowed multiple treats

THE WEEKEND just past featured the final concerts of both local symphony orchestras, the competition sponsored by the Chamber Music Society and the concert of the winners of that competition. It kept music lovers on the move.

Oleg Kovalenko chose Bach, Schumann and Beethoven for the final series of the Monterey Bay Symphony. The program opened with Bach's popular Concerto for Two Violins, featuring the principals of the first and second violin sections, Herbert Holtman and David Dally.

Lilian Kallir was the featured soloist in the Schumann A minor piano concerto. The glorious first movement, originally entitled "Fantasy," was written by Robert for his wife, pianist Clara Wieck, during the first year of their marriage, a period of unequalled inspiration in Schumann's life. The second and third movements were added four years later; although they are good, they do not originate from the same transcendent plane as the first movement.

Kallir was excellent, delivering a poetic reading with a minimum of mannerism. There was some disagreement with the orchestra regarding tempos, but it was resolved without excessive discomfort. I wanted more woodwind throughout, but that seems to have been a function more of acoustics than players.

Beethoven's Third Symphony, the "Eroica," completed the program in a strong performance. The outer movements were aggressive and exciting; the slow movement (a funeral march) properly tense and somber; the French horns shone in the witty scherzo.

The financially-troubled orchestra, to the delight of its loyal supporters, has announced another season to come.

THE TWO FIRST prizes in the Chamber Music Society's competition went to the Manhattan Wind Quintet (Manhattan School of Music) and the Cavani String Quartet (Eastman School of Music). Unfortunately, I was unable to attend the competition on Saturday, but I was nevertheless very comfortable with awards to these outstanding groups.

Sunset Theater was less than half full for Sunday's concert, a great shame for those who elected not to come. We were privileged to hear chamber music of two of the 20th century's most important composers, beautifully played.

The Manhattan Wind Quintet played the Quintet Op. 24 No. 2 by Hindemith, written in 1922, which may explain certain similarities to his wonderful piano suite entitled "1922." It is tuneful, bouncy, thoroughly upbeat, and this young group did a splendid job with it. The few problems were minor, and reflected the difficulty of the genre itself.

Bartok's Fourth Quartet (1928) was the uncompromising choice of the winning string quartet. Of Bartok's six masterful quartets, this is the most difficult, at least for the listener. Bartok is always tightly organized, and this work is no exception, but it is more elusive than the others. It is in five movements, the only slow movement forms the centerpiece. The two movements on either side of it are made up of many unusual and unexpected sounds. The first and last movements are the most straightforward, especially the last which is rhythmically driving and whose tunes have a folkish flavor. The Cavani Quartet presented a very fine reading of the work, lyrical, spirited, intense or aggressive as required, but always in the service of the music.

Another quartet of young women (making up for lost time, we are!), the Cassatt String Quartet (Juilliard School of Music) won the second prize. Their talents were well-displayed in Mendelssohn's classical Quartet, Op. 13.

California was represented by the third prize winners, from — of all places — CSU-Fresno, a wind quartet which played a work by Anton Reicha, a competent but far-from-great composer of the early 19th century. Although this was a very good student ensemble, it lacked the polish of the others.

THE MONTEREY County Symphony, under Clark Suttle, closed its season with a bang, the Fourth Symphony of Tchaikovsky. Suttle emphasized the warmth and exuberance rather than the moodiness of the work, and it was mostly successful. The orchestra was showcased from the brass choir at the beginning, a lovely oboe solo opening the second movement, charm and delicacy from the strings in the third movement, and a generally hair-raising finale.

Haydn's first "Paris" symphony, No. 82, opened the concert, with a totally different sound — as taut and crisp as the Romantic work was vibrant and lush. The Rococo qualities, especially in the second movement, had grace, and Haydn's droll finale was well realized.

Ruth Laredo was the piano soloist in the first Liszt Concerto, which is as flamboyant as the Schumann Concerto is poetic. This is Liszt the showman, the devilishly virtuoso pianist, rather than Liszt the innovator. Laredo was certainly equal to the technical task, and almost everyone enjoyed it a lot.

Society screens international films

The River, Man of Flowers and Living at Risk are the upcoming films shown by the Monterey Peninsula Film Society.

Jean Renoir's The River is the film offering Thursday, May 8. Nora Swinburne stars in this 1951 British production, a sometimes-haunting portrait of a young English girl growing up on the banks of a holy river in Bengal, India.

Screened Friday through Sunday, May 9-11, will be Man of Flowers, a 1984 Australian film directed by Paul Cox. This comical satire depicts the consummate connoisseur, and the cast includes Chris Haywood, Norman Kaye and Werner Herzog.

The reality of economic boycott is depicted in Living at Risk, shown Wednesday and Thursday, May 14-15. The 1985 film is the story of a Nicaraguan family who are middle-class supporters of the Sandinista regime. The documentary was directed by Alfred Guzzetti.

All films begin at 8:15 p.m. in Morse Auditorium, Monterey Institute of International Studies, 440 Van Buren St. in Monterey. Tickets are $3.50 general, $3 students, $2.75 senior citizens and $2 for Monterey Peninsula Film Society members. For details, call 659-4795 between 5 p.m. and show time.

Photographic workshops offered statewide, on peninsula

THE MONTEREY Peninsula Photographic Workshops 1986 series continues through October with several workshops led by local professional photographers.

Professional and amateur photographers can choose from a range of workshops, including visits to Garrapata State Park, Pinnacles National Monument and Mono Lake.

In addition, there are workshops offered on printing, graphic design and creating art posters.

Photographers lined up to teach the workshops include Huntington Witherill, Edna Bullock, Jerry Lebeck, Henry Gilpin, Ron James, Roger Fremier and Richard Garrod.

The schedule for the 1986 Monterey Peninsula Photographic Workshops follows:

- Garrapata State Park: Roger Fremier, director of the workshop series and chairman of the Monterey Peninsula College Photography Department, will lead a day-long trip to Garrapata State Park on the Big Sur coast May 17. Fremier will offer personalized on-location assistance for color and black and white photographers. The $45 fee includes a picnic lunch.

- Product and Portrait Studio Lighting: Jerry Lebeck, a commercial photographer and MPC instructor, will tackle studio lighting problems for color and black and white photographs May 24 and 25. Lebeck will review student portfolios and offer individualized assistance on special lighting problems. Saturday is set aside for product lighting and on Sunday Lebeck will discuss studio portrait lighting. Participants may register for one or both days. Fee is $45 for a single session or $80 for both days.

- The Master of 35mm: Ron James, an instructor at MPC whose images have appeared internationally, will unveil his special darkroom techniques for printing 35mm May 31. Fee is $40.

- Printing Formulas of the Masters: Richard Garrod, whose photographic experience dates back 30 years and who has led workshops at Friends of Photography, offers a three-day workshop on darkroom techniques of the masters June 13-15. - Pinnacles National Monument: Henry Gilpin, an MPC instructor and scenic photographer, will lead an expedition to Pinnacles National Monument June 21 followed by a day-long processing and printing session June 22. Participants are encouraged to bring their portfolios. The fee is $85.

- Photographing the Male Nude: Edna Bullock, wife of the late famed photographer Wynn Bullock and fine photographer in her own right, will present a two-day workshop July 19-20 on photographing the male nude. Three shooting sessions, darkroom work, model and lunch are included in the $115 fee.

- Printing and Presentation for Exhibition: Huntington Witherill, a Monterey landscape photographer, will offer a two-day workshop on fine printing, spotting, dry mounting, overmatting and archival procedures Aug. 2-3. Fee is $75.

- Graphic Design Workshop: Peter Anderson, manager of graphic design for Princeton University Press and former book design editor for Friends of Photography, will conduct this workshop Aug. 9. The workshop will familiarize participants with the basic concepts of photographic bookmaking including editing, typesetting, design, printing and binding. Participants are encouraged to bring book project proposals. Fee is $95.

Dual artists' works shown at art association

MONOTYPES BY Joe Tanous and watercolors by W.F. Stone will be highlighted through June 8 in the galleries of the Carmel Art Association, Dolores Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues, Carmel.

Travel through parts of Britain, Japan and the United States inspired the images for a solo art exhibit by W.F. Stone titled "Running Tides — Rolling Timber." A Carmel Art Association member, Stone will present his most recently completed watercolor paintings in the association's Beardsley Room.

Stone describes his unorthodox approach to watercolor as "exacting and hard-edged." His arrangement of form and composition reveals an illustrator's love for the architectural and design aspects of his subjects, in this case places and things near the waterfronts where he has traveled.

"CALIFORNIA MOMENTS," a collection of recently completed monotypes by Carmel artist Joseph Tanous, will also be on view at the Carmel Association.

Tanous currently teaches art at Monterey Peninsula College and has also been an instructor at U.C. Davis and American University, Beirut. His award-winning art work includes painting, graphics and ceramics and has been exhibited in numerous one-man shows around California museums and galleries.

His latest series of one-of-a-kind prints are a non-traditional approach to printing, on Japanese papers. Each image is a vignette of the California coastal region.

Murder of Pacific Grove man shocks Carmel

the campaign). He was too 'nice,' too eager."

ACCORDING TO those who knew him, after the election Archer started "acting out of balance."

"It wasn't long after the campaign that he seemed to get desperate," said one acquaintance, who added that Archer would call him often as if he was "trying to reach out. He seemed very insecure."

The acquaintance said that after Archer had moved out of his wife's house, he had moved into a house on San Antonio Street and 13th Avenue and then, around April 26, into a house Archer claimed he was renting on San Antonio Street and 11th Avenue.

The house was a vacant rental handled by San Carlos Agency which Bruce Britton, vice president of the agency, said Archer had expressed an interest in renting the previous week. The agency, he said, was unaware of Archer moving into house.

While there, Archer threw a party on Saturday night, which few people attended, according to one source.

"He kept talking about the chicks who would be there soon, but it was 2 a.m. and obviously nobody was coming," the source said.

On Sunday, the next day, Archer gave another party, this time attended by more people, including a brief visit by Eastwood and new councilwoman Elinor Laiolo with her husband, Barney. They all live a short distance from the house.

Britton said he and Carmel police officers evicted Archer Tuesday night, April 29, the night before the Podell killing.

Archer was questioned at Mission Ranch by the Carmel police in connection with complaints about bad checks and the rental problem with the San Carlos Agency. However, no charges were filed against Archer, according to the police department, so they could not take him into custody.

That same night, Archer was seen at a couple of peninsula bars, including one in Monterey. There someone who knew Archer and saw him there said Archer was drunk and "his references to women were derogatory, disgusting, even for a man. It was odd. He got on my nerves." Archer had harassed a woman at the bar and had words with the man.

The same man said that he had been getting a "real strange feeling about him the last couple of days" before the murder.

On the day Podell was shot, hours before the incident, Archer called several people he had met during the campaign. One call was to Elinor Laiolo, according to Barney Laiolo, but he was told the councilwoman was in a meeting. His voice sounded a little strange, Laiolo said, as if he had been drinking.

Others Archer called that day said the same thing. He had called and wanted just to talk about things in general, one person he called said, but his voice sounded a little different. He also made a phone call to Eastwood headquarters and asked to talk to the mayor. The call was not put through.

According to Lt. Ken Hansen, Monterey County Sheriff's detective, Podell apparently found Archer at a house on Hacienda Drive in Pebble Beach, thought he was burglarizing the home and tried to stop him. It was then that Archer allegedly shot him.

The home was for sale and listed with the San Carlos Agency in conjunction with Del Monte Real Estate, Britton said. Archer had toured and made an offer on the home last summer, but did not qualify for the loan, he added.

Podell, a contractor who Britton said worked often for San Carlos Realty, had been sent out to the home by the agency to fix some leaking windows.

Podell, Britton said, had known about Archer moving into the home on San Antonio Street in Carmel. According to Britton, Podell had yelled out to a woman walking down the street to call the agency. While she was calling, Podell was shot with a shotgun and dragged by Archer's car about 100 feet. A couple playing on the golf course fronting the home saw the body being dragged underneath the car and waved the car down. The suspect, Hansen said, got out of the car, unhooked the body, and drove off without saying anything to the couple.

Wednesday night, after the incident, Archer reportedly called at least three different women asking them to run away with him.

Archer eluded arrest until the afternoon of May 5, when he was chased down and arrested by San Luis Obispo county sheriffs after a high-speed chase.

THE SAN Carlos Agency has set up a memorial fund for Podell's family and the many charities he was involved in.

Delay annex, sell Flanders, build bathrooms

"However the expense is borne by all of them."

"The expense for the library comes from the trust fund," Wright reminded Fischer.

The council took no action on the annex proposal, preferring to wait for a report on the Pine Inn offer.

SELLING FLANDERS MANSION

The council — although disagreeing on where the proceeds should be allocated — did approve on a 4-1 vote to market Flanders Mansion inside Mission Trail Park.

The city will contract with a real estate consultant to assist in the arrangements to sell the mansion. Past reports indicate it will cost the city more than $350,000 to completely remodel the mansion.

Hatton Road resident Roberta Bialek told the council she is concerned about traffic, fire and vandalism problems. She asked that any buyer be "someone who is there day and night."

Former Mayor Gunnar Norberg said "I think it would be unwise to sell it or lease it for a long period of time... The city is not losing money on it."

Arnold said that "normally I'm very much opposed to selling park land" but said she could support the proposal as long as the money is earmarked for land acquisition. "To sacrifice one thing, in other words, for a larger good."

She made such a motion, but it failed after only receiving Wright's support.

But Eastwood claimed that earmarking the funds for land acquisition "is putting the city in the real estate business," which was another one of the issues he campaigned against.

Arnold said not earmarking the funds "would make it too easy to spend the money on something else."

A separate motion to sell the mansion without earmarking the proceeds was adopted on a 4-1 vote. "In good conscience I have to vote no," Arnold said.

RESTROOMS AT PICCADILLY

The council on a 4-1 vote directed staff to develop plans for small restroom facilities at Piccadilly Park.

The restrooms would be located at the front of the park in the southeast corner. On a noon tour the council learned that there are too many drainage and security problems to locate the facility in the back of the park.

Wright dissented, saying that the 4,000 sq. ft. park is just too small for restrooms.

On the redesign issue, the council unanimously directed staff to prepare plans to replace the front iron entrance with a grapestake gate. There also are plans to replace the guard rails by the pond and to install hanging vines from the trellis against the Toots Lagoon restaurant wall.

The council chose not to act on requests from the Carmel Business Association for an office in the back of the park and from the garden club to install a deck in the rear.

DEVENDORF RESTROOMS BIDDED

The council unanimously accepted a $103,000 bid for public restrooms at Devendorf Park. There was little council discussion on the issue.

FIREWORKS ARE BANNED

After hearing convincing arguments from Police Chief Jack McGilvray, the council unanimously banned fireworks on the Fourth of July.

The action was taken on first reading of an ordinance. Final action comes on second reading in June.

The chief told the council that police confiscated 3,000 pieces of illegal fireworks last year. "Safe and sane" state fire marshals approved fireworks were allowed in 1985.

"The potential for very serious injury is very great," McGilvray said.

Eastwood seemed reluctant to ban fireworks at first. "I hate to use the words Scrooge City," said Eastwood, referring to the Los Angeles Times headline often quoted in the mayor's successful election campaign.

But Eastwood was convinced by the chief's comments and those by Fischer, a retired assistant police chief.

"I'm a survivor of the Fourth of July on Carmel Beach and I don't like fireworks," Fischer said. After that, Eastwood said, "I guess what I'm saying is I'll see you all at Ft. Ord."

Ft. Ord will present a professional fireworks demonstration again this year.

ICE CREAM RULES AHEAD

With little discussion, the council gave the planning commission the authority to develop a proposed ordinance that would ease rules governing ice cream parlors.

In other key decisions, the council:

- Appointed Ed Hicks and Bruce Roberts to the planning commission. They replace Art Mertens and Gene Hammond.

- Dissolved the Business License and Code Review Board.

- Approved a resolution opposing Sen. Pete Wilson's measure to federalize Big Sur "in its present form."

- Appointed a committee headed by Alan Williams and Ed Lee to advise the city on water issues.

- Established a separate beach commission. Membership will be determined later.

- Allowed the recreation committee to develop a recreation element for the general plan.

- Appointed a committee headed by Bob Evans to review the general plan as an "ongoing critique."

- Agreed to proceed with installing access stairways to Carmel Beach.

- Authorized paving the city-owned lots on Dolores Street with decomposed granite to use as parking this summer while the senior citizen housing project proposal is reviewed.

Thanks Time, but we've been using mesquite wood in our open-hearth broiler for years. We pioneered its use here to achieve tantalizing flavors in fresh fish and fine meats. Time says "a status fuel." We knew it all the Time!

If you have a craving for fish and chips or a basket of tasty fried calamari, but are pressed for time, drop into Moby's Deck conveniently located at 202 Lighthouse in New Monterey. A special Mother's Day Plate features not only deep golden fried fish, calamari and prawns, but an attractive price as well: $4.95! Of course their regular menu of gourmet fish and chips, clam chowder and even bagel dogs, are readily available, all to-go too. Entrees are priced from $3.75-$7.95; try to beat that for price and convenience. Hours, 11 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. 649-6180.

For something a little exotic and out of the ordinary take Mom to a Middle Eastern restaurant where tabouli, felafl and belly dancing are the order of the day. The choice won't be too hard, there's only one on the Monterey Peninsula and that's The Nile Restaurant, 301 Grand Ave. in Pacific Grove. In addition to the above (yes, they do have belly dancers every Saturday evening), you'll find mouth-watering shish kabob and taste-tempting baklava on the menu. For Mother's Day shish kabob is featured at $9. Prices for the regular menu are in the $3-$10 range. Hours are 5-10 p.m. 375-3533.

"F" is for fish, but it's also for Flaherty's, one of the most popular restaurants in Carmel, a place where fish (and other seafood) are prominently featured, not only on the menu, but in the huge aquarium that fronts the restaurant. There's actually two Flaherty's, the Oyster Bar and the Seafood Grill and Oyster House, both on Sixth Avenue between San Carlos and Dolores. Fresh local seafood and East Coast specialties such as lobster and steamers (that's clams for you non-Noreasters), are highlighted. A trip to the well-stocked salad bar and two kinds of clam chowder are both a must, especially the seafood pasta. The oyster bar is open from 11:30 a.m. to 10 p.m., the seafood grill, 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. for lunch and 5-10 p.m. for dinner. Rememt.r for fish, it's Flaherty's.

For the atmosphere of a French bistro in the heart of the City of Light take Mom to L'Amandine, Ocean near Lincoln in Carmel. The only source on the Monterey Peninsula for the adventuresome cuisine of Thailand is Siamese Bay Restaurant, located behind the post office at 131 Webster St., Monterey. The menu is extensive and the degree of spiciness in many dishes can be customized.

Thai food, if you've not tried it, is a highly developed cuisine that stresses fresh ingredients and eye-pleasing presentations. Diners who suffer falling into a "restaurant rut" will find redemption in the lengthy and exciting menu at Siamese Bay Restaurant, where appetizers, soups, salads, curries, seafood and other specialties are served with pride.

Exotic herbs such as fragrant lemon grass season the pot, and the degree of spiciness — well, that is up to you — mild, medium or "spicy hot." You'll want seconds, and that fire pot keeps the brew steaming.

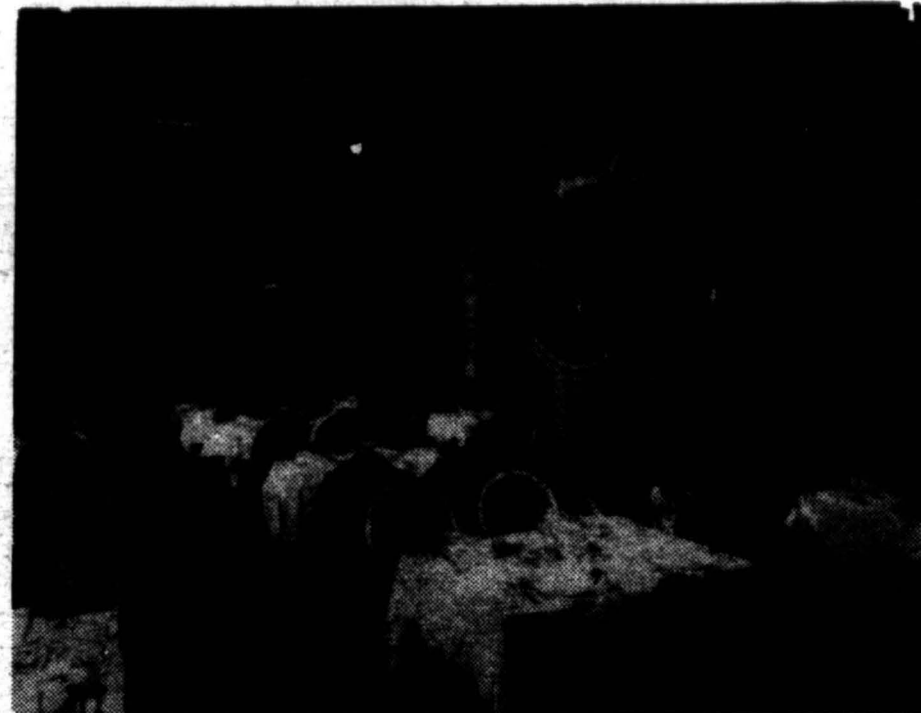

Meal starters are no less exotic yet refined. One Thai specialty is Mee Grob. Shrimp, pork and bean sprouts are married in a nest of crispy sweet noodles. The crunchy appetizer — surprise — is bright red! Siamese Bay Restaurant also interprets the spring roll. A platter of the reach-worthy rolls, or Por-Pai-Tord, are accompanied by carefully balanced plum sauce.

The palate sufficiently teased, it's time to turn to the main dishes and house specialties. No less than eight Thai curries grace the menu at Siamese Bay. A veritable rainbow of curries can be ordered in combination with beef, chicken, duck or shrimp. Hotness can range from mild to gunpowder strength, according to the diner's preference.

Siamese Bay is also open for lunch, with meals in the $3.50 to $4.50 price range. The restaurant is open 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Order your favorite Thai dishes to go by calling 373-1550.

John Pisto's award-winning Whaling Station Inn Restaurant at 763 Wave Street, overlooking Cannery Row in Monterey, has evolved through the years into a supper house of rare quality. Its expansion and evolution, however, have done nothing to the fine cuisine except enhance it. The menu is addressed to the discriminating diner who appreciates fine foods expertly prepared and served.

GENTLY illuminated by fireplace and candlelight, The Captain's Room at the Sardine Factory is home to award-winning cuisine. Staff critics from Town and Country Magazine and Travel Holiday Magazine are among those who rate The Sardine Factory one of the best restaurants in California year after year. Look for its distinctive red awning at 701 Wave St., above Cannery Row in Monterey.

From the mesquite open-hearth broiler come roast quail or chicken, New York steak or filet mignon, grilled Big Sur trout, beef brochette and more. An unusual (for a restaurant) and delicious specialty is the Veal Rollatini, filled with prosciutto and imported cheese and sauteed in wine sauce. Also not to be overlooked, and long a favorite with regular patrons are the Veal Cannelloni.

Leave room for dessert! The cannoli, cream-filled Italian crepe pastries, are sublime, as is the rich custard éclair, cheesecake, Bavarian pudding and more. Add espresso or capuccino as the perfect accompaniment.

Reservations are suggested: 373-4248.

Roses for all ladies, not just for Mom, will be the order of the day Sunday at the Old Bath House Restaurant at 620 Ocean View Blvd. next to picturesque Lovers Point in Pacific Grove. Enjoy brunch or dinner overlooking Monterey Bay, brunch from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., dinner from 5-10:30 p.m. Brunch prices range from $9-$12.50, while dinner is from $13-$25. They'll be serving their regular menu, but with a few unadvertised specials. Reservations are advised. 375-5195.

It's a little off the beaten path, but it's well worth searching out, and that's the little gem, Swiss Tavern, a favorite of locals in Carmel, located at Su Vecino Court, upstairs, Lincoln between Fifth and Sixth. On Mother's Day, from 4 p.m. on, they'll be serving fresh Monterey Bay salmon; a fresh flower goes to Mom to help her celebrate. Reservations are advised. 624-5994.

Does Mom want pasta, but all the kids want pizza? Either-

Mom wins out on Mother's Day and the kids go pizza-less, or everyone simply goes to Gianni's Pizza, 725 Lighthouse in New Monterey, where they can dish up a hot pepperoni pizza or a variety of fresh pastas, including linguine and fettuccine. Check out their new expanded restaurant, with plenty of seating and a new cocktail bar. Their regular menu is served from 11:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. Of course you can call ahead for takeout orders of their pizzas and pasta. No reservations are required either. 649-1501.

When most people think of breakfast on the peninsula, they think of Carmel, and when they think of Carmel, one of the several popular breakfast places that is invariably near the top of everyone's list is Katy's Place, east side of Mission between Fifth and Sixth. Katy's, which features wholesome homemade meals (just like Mom makes?) also serves lunch and has recently added dinner. Breakfast and lunch are served 7 a.m. to 2 p.m., while dinner checks in at 5-9 p.m. No reservations are required either. Check out their famous raspberry pancakes. They'll make Mom's day. 624-0199.

It's almost become an institution in Carmel, and it's definitely a "hotspot," and that would be none other than Bud's Pub, Su Vecino Court between Lincoln and Dolores. They'll be serving their regular menu for Mother's Day, but a few specials have been highlighted for Mom, including a daily pasta special, steak and kidney pie, three mini-burgers, chili and corned beef. Or order from the regular menu, which features English and Irish specialties. Of course Bud's has a full-service bar and if you need to wait for a table, head for the authentic hot popcorn machine in the corner for free popcorn. Also try their draft Bass Ale for the British pub touch.

How much more convenient can Bullwackers on Cannery Row be? It's right there fronting the Row, across from Steinbeck's bust and just below the Edgewater Packing Co. at 653 Cannery Row. They specialize in a cozy, rustic atmosphere and seafood, with steaks, sandwiches and omelettes also featured on the menu. The entire menu is available from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., including some great appetizers that are almost a meal in themselves. There's a full bar and all major credit cards are accepted. 373-1353.

While on Fisherman's Wharf drop into Wharfside, 60 Fisherman's Wharf, where a free rose awaits Mom along with a choice of two special entrees: Sautéed Shrimp and Mushrooms over homemade linguine or Monterey Snapper grilled and sautéed with artichokes and mushrooms. A crisp green salad, bread and butter are included, all for only $6.95. Mother's Day specials as well as the regular menu will be served from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Dinners are served to 9:30 p.m. No reservations are required. How do you improve on perfection? It's hard, but The Covey, at the Quail Lodge, 8205 Valley Greens Drive just off Carmel-Valley Road, has attempted it with its newly-refurbished restaurant, one that has always been high on the list of the best restaurants in the area. Spoil Mom with two of The Covey's special Mother's Day entrees: Breast of Chicken Stuffed with Shrimp Mousse ($15.50) or fresh salmon cooked to order as well as perfection ($17.50). Their regular menu will also be served, 6:30-10:30 p.m., with entrees ranging from $13-$19. Reservations and jackets are requested. 624-1581.

Jack London's Bar and Bistro, San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth, Carmel, may be just the ticket for Mother's Day because they're planning on a special Mother's Day treat for all the Moms out there. Starting, of course, with complimentary champagne and a flower for Mom, you can savor the selections for Mother's Day Sunday Brunch (11 a.m. to 3 p.m.). It includes Crab and Avocado Benedict ($7.95); Crab, Shrimp and Avocado Salad ($5.95); and Crab or Shrimp Melt ($6.95). Mother's Day dinner menu, served from 1 p.m. until closing at 1 a.m. includes, Roast Prime Rib of Beef Au Jus ($12.95); Prawns, Scampi Style ($14.95); combination of the both, prime rib and scampi ($15.95); and Stuffed Breast of Chicken with Orange Sauce ($10.95). It's small and intimate, but infinitely rewarding. 624-2336.

CANNERY ROW GUIDE

Cannery Row — the street immortalized in John Steinbeck's novel and by a little silver fish — is one of the highlights of a visit to the Monterey Peninsula.

The mile-long Row curves along the shores of Monterey Bay from the Coast Guard Station to the former site of the Hovden Cannery, now home to the state-of-the-art Monterey Bay Aquarium.

"The sardine capital of the world" had humble beginnings around the turn of the century when F.E. Booth built the first fish packing plant. As the local pilchard (or sardine) became a gourmet delicacy rather than bait for salmon fishermen, demand outdistanced supply.

An Italian fisherman, Pietro Ferrante, and a Norwegian canning expert, Knut Hovden, changed the course of Cannery Row's history. Ferrante imported Italian fishing nets; Hovden modernized packing methods. The nets made it possible to scoop off tons of fish with one haul.

Purse seines eventually replaced the Italian lampara nets and were capable of scooping up more fish than the smaller fishing boats could carry! World War II created a new boom for Cannery Row, which by now boasted a number of small groceries and other businesses tucked in among the canneries, as well as the biology laboratory of Ed "Doc" Ricketts.

In 1945, Cannery Row packed more than 235,000 tons of sardines in 19 operating canneries. But there were some pessimists among the fish-packing optimists — marine biologist Ed "Doc" Ricketts, among them. He warned that overfishing might destroy the entire industry.

In 1946, Cannery Row packed 142,000 tons; by 1948, only 14,000 tons were processed. And in 1951, after a brief comeback, there were no sardines at all. Doc Ricketts maintained they had all gone into cans.

As the canneries closed, they fell into ramshackle disrepair and were frequently destroyed by uncontrollable fires.

There are still enough of the hulking cannery buildings, however, and the overpasses that cross Cannery Row, to retain the flavor, if not the aroma, of the past. That the canneries now house restaurants and art galleries makes them all the more accessible and interesting; after all, who would visit a sardine packing plant?

The Row is now the home of many fine restaurants that serve everything from fresh local seafood to Chinese, Italian and Continental cuisine, not to mention Sunday brunch.

No longer is Cannery Row deserted after dark. Now there are bright lights, laughter and the sound of music. Visitors can enjoy a variety of entertainment in restaurant cocktail lounges and there are several spots that offer dancing to live music.

Constructed in "the footprint" of the Hovden Cannery on the west end of Cannery Row is the Monterey Bay Aquarium. The $40 million aquarium opened in October of 1984. Its 83 tanks are home to more than 5,000 fishes, mammals, birds, invertebrates and plants, virtually all of which can be found in Monterey Bay.

The Monterey Bay Aquarium is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily except Christmas. For recorded information about the aquarium, call 375-3333.
